Nazis and Fascists Very Proud About Spain's Civil War

German Papers Acclaim Returning Legions, Tell of Nation's Part in Franco Victory

Ciano's Story

Mussolini's Paper Prints Article by Count Ciano Lauding Italy

(By The Associated Press)

Germany and Italy pointed proudly today to the parts they played in helping Generalissimo Franco win the Spanish Civil War.

A jubilant welcome was given several thousand German soldiers returning from service with the Nationalist forces in Spain as they sailed into Hamburg harbor to be greeted by Field Marshal Herman Wilhelm Goering.

They were members of the Condor Legion and newspapers took the occasion of their return to tell the German public much concerning German assistance to the Nationalist cause.

While cheering crowds welcomed the returning fighters, the public learned for the first time of the role of the German airforce in ferrying Moors to Spain from Africa soon after the war broke out July 18, 1936.

Condor Legion Formed

Newspapers said the German air ministry was accepting volunteers for Spain by the end of July, 1936, and that the Condor Legion was formed three months later of aviators, tank operators, artillery gunners and teachers whose ranks were kept filled throughout the war.

In Italy, Premier Mussolini's Il Popolo D'Italia reprinted an article by his son-in-law, Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano saying that Italy had intervened in the Spanish War a week after its outbreak.

Ciano declared that Italy sent planes to Spain only after an unidentified foreign power sent aerial aid to the Republicans. He said that the first body of Italian troops had landed at Cadiz December 22, 1936.

About 23,000 Italians, the remnants of the Italian forces in Spain, are scheduled to sail for Italy this week.

Meanwhile, the French Socialist party, the nation's largest single political unit, ended its national convention at Nantes by adopting a resolution supporting the French government's system of alliances.

Expresses Regret

The resolution expressed regret, however, that "a foreign policy limited to organization of military resistance would not be sufficient to safeguard peace."

A non-aggression pact was signed today by Germany and Denmark who promised to refrain from attacks on one another.

The agreement was a result of President Roosevelt's peace appeal to Adolf Hitler April 15. Hitler later offered non-aggression treaties to several smaller nations, and Denmark accepted.

Progress in negotiations for a British-French-Soviet pact was expected to be discussed in Moscow by Premier-Foreign Minister Vyacheslaff Molotoff in a speech before the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament.

Molotoff talked last night with the British Ambassador, Sir William Seeds, to clarify some points in the negotiations.

Only Slightly Burned

Selma, Ala., May 31 (AP)—While 18-year-old J. B. Bridges was pouring gasoline into a running tractor the gasoline exploded, splashed the youth with flame. The youth's quick-thinking father caught him up, hurled him into a well. When neighbors hauled him out, young Bridges was very wet but only slightly burned.

Girl Saves Four

Marie Watson, 16, Senses Danger in Capsule Given to Her by Mother

Clinton, Okla., May 31 (AP).—A girl who sensed danger in the "quinine capsules" her destitute mother gave her and four other children saved all but one from death by poison.

Marie Watson, 16, ran seven blocks to a hospital yesterday with her 6-year-old brother, Jerry, in her arms but he died from deadly effects of capsules his mother had given him for "malaria."

Behind her, screaming, ran Bobbie, 14; David, 12, and Joe, 9. All four collapsed as Marie gasped out her story but staff physicians quickly revived them with emergency treatment.

Sheriff Everett Stambaugh said the mother, Mrs. Ida Watson, 34, was found in her tourist cabin home with a six-inch gash in her throat, self-inflicted with a butcher knife.

Hospital attendants predicted she would recover.

Wait in Vain for Word of Son

While unverified reports that their venturesome son, Tommy, 24, had been seen over Ireland and England in his "Baby Clipper" filled the air, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith (above) kept a vigil in their Clarksburg, W. Va., home. But finally the reports were just that the young pilot was "long overdue" on his Atlantic hop.

Communicants Are in Dither

Rector of St. James' Church, Hyde Park, Tries to Remain Calm as Everyone Clamors to Be Present When Royalty Worships

Hyde Park, N. Y., May 31 (AP)—So many parishioners and their friends and relatives want permission to worship with King George and Queen Elizabeth at St. James Episcopal Church June 11 that the Rev. Frank R. Wilson has had his telephone service cut off during meals so he'll have time to eat.

But while the communicants are in a dither over the prospective visit of royalty, Mr. Wilson is taking it with clerical calm.

A tall, angular, middle-aged man, who has been President Roosevelt's rector for 10 years, he told reporters with a smile:

"We realize it is a great honor that our church will be the only one in the United States at which Their Majesties will worship. It will be historic. But, then, the church is already rich in history."

All the 250 eligible parish members want to be on hand—and hundreds of other persons. But the two sections of pews will hold only 200. And 80 seats have been set aside for the parties of the British rulers and the President.

Members of the church who attend most regularly will be allotted seats. Others must stand outside. Each, whether he goes in or remains outside, must have a ticket bearing his name.

Their Majesties, President and Mrs. Roosevelt and probably the President's mother will occupy the first pew to the left of the altar. It is a rather severe wooden bench with a red pad on the seat and a railing in front.

The sermon will be delivered by the presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, Henry St. George Tucker.

Mr. Wilson will give the morning prayer, and the scripture lesson will be read by the Rev. A. Raymond Smith, rector at Campo Bello Island, New Brunswick, where the Roosevelts have a summer home.

Hymns familiar to millions of church-goers will be sung—"An-

Barmann Brewery To Operate Own Bottling Division

New Department Receives $65,000 Equipment for Installation; Branch Offices to Open

First shipments of equipment which will put beer of the Peter Barmann Brewery, Inc., in bottles for the first time since repeal of the 18th amendment, has arrived in the city, and is now being unloaded for installation in the local plant, it was announced today.

Two carloads of the bottling equipment are now at the local freight yard and three others will arrive within the next few days.

Machinery for the bottling works and pasteurizing unit was manufactured by the George J. Meyer Manufacturing Company of Milwaukee, Wis., the largest manufacturers of such equipment in the world. The estimated cost of the equipment for the local plant is $65,000.

Daily Carloads

The company is receiving daily carloads of new bottles and cases and other necessary arrangements preliminary to the opening of the bottling division of the plant are currently under way. It was stated by officials of the company that all material which can be bought locally will be used in building and equipping the bottling works.

The brewery now employs 25 men inside the plant, a sales force of five men and a crew of five truck drivers. The average weekly payroll is $1,500. Five new trucks for the handling of case beer will be purchased and ready for operation by the time the bottling plant is completed.

The equipment to be used in the bottling works is mostly of the heavy type machinery and the pasteurizing unit alone weights 50 tons.

Preparations are also under way for the opening of branch offices of the company at Hempstead, L. I., Brooklyn and New York city. The company is currently shipping beer to Endicott, Ithaca, Tarrytown and Haverstraw as well as to many places in this immediate vicinity.

Salvage Work Continues

Portsmouth, N. H., May 31 (AP)—Navy divers, toiling on the task of raising the sunken submarine Squalus and her 26 dead, descended 240 feet below the surface today to attach connections with which to build up air pressure in the submarine's water-free forward compartments.

Government Cost Shapes Up to Be Bigger by Billion

Expenses Mount in Spite of Session's Economy Drive; Bills Carry Greater Provisions

Washington, May 31 (AP)—Despite a session-long economy drive, the cost of the federal government for the year starting July 1—exclusive of relief—was shaping up today to be almost $1,000,000,000 bigger than for the current fiscal year.

The 11 regular appropriation bills, already passed by the House, carry $694,445,987 more than for the present year. Several supplemental estimates, including $239,002,500 more for the army, still are pending.

Some of the increase, however, may be offset when Congress votes relief funds for the next year. President Roosevelt has requested $1,762,490,000 for this purpose, in contrast to the $2,250,000,000 appropriated during the current year.

Highway Crashes Play Major Role, Killing More Than 205 Persons; 85 People Drown

New York 'Safe'

Motoring Millions Around New York Come Through Safely

(By The Associated Press)

Violent death took at least 374 lives as the cost of the nation's four day Memorial Day "week-end" from Saturday through Tuesday.

In the three-day holiday period last year more than 250 were killed, and in 1937 the total was more than 350.

As usual, highway crashes were the chief agents of disaster, taking more than 205 lives. Eighty-five persons drowned. Airplane crackups, shootings and miscellaneous accidents accounted for the rest.

Most spectacular automobile fatality was the death of veteran driver Floyd Roberts in a three-car pileup during the Indianapolis 500-mile speed derby. Roberts won the 1938 race.

Dies From Kick

In Kentucky a man died from a mule's kick; in Colorado a boy was killed in a fall from a cliff; In Illinois an amateur fisherman was electrocuted while gathering angle worms with a home-made electrical device.

Oddly, no automobile death was reported in the metropolitan New York area yesterday, although motoring millions thronged to the World's Fair, Jones Beach, Coney Island and other resorts.

New York state led in motor deaths, however, with 19. California reported 16 and Illinois 14. Ohio, Iowa, and Illinois had seven drownings each.

Deaths by states from all causes:

Alabama 2, Arizona 1, Arkansas 6, California 22, Colorado 9, Connecticut 7, Florida 4, Georgia 12, Idaho 3, Illinois 23, Indiana 20, Iowa 13, Kansas 5, Kentucky 14, Louisiana 1, Maine 5, Maryland 3, Massachusetts 8, Michigan 22, Minnesota 11, Mississippi 1, Missouri 13, Montana 1, Nebraska 1, Nevada 1, New Hampshire 3, New Jersey 17, New York 34, North Carolina 2, North Dakota 4, Ohio 21, Oklahoma 9, Oregon 3, Pennsylvania 14, South Dakota 2 Utah 5, Virginia 11, Washington 12, West Virginia 14, Wisconsin 11, District of Columbia 2.

34 Lose Lives in State

Albany, N. Y., May 31 (AP)—The four-day celebration of Memorial Day cost 34 lives in upstate New York since Friday.

After a heavy Saturday and Sunday automobile accident toll, traffic fatalities tapered off sharply, dropping to two reported deaths on the state's highways yesterday. Nineteen died in auto accidents since Saturday.

State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Carroll E. Mealey termed the deaths a "shocking commentary" on the use of the motor car and urged tourists to drive during the daytime to reduce night traffic.

Among the latest deaths, by communities:

Gen. Moseley Says He Warned Craig of Plot

Washington, May 31 (AP)—Major General George Van Horn Moseley, retired, testified today he had repeatedly "warned" General Malin Craig, army chief of staff, about a plot to overthrow the government.

Moseley told the house committee on un-American activities that he received information of the plot in so-called "music scores" sent to him by James E. Campbell of Owensboro, Ky., a reserve army officer.

Governor Vetoes Civil Service Act As Serious Menace

Wicks' Proposal Providing for Review by Courts Is Turned Down; Lehman Files Memorandum

Albany, May 30 (Special)—Disapproval of the Governor has been given to a bill of Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, amending the civil service law, providing that rules, regulations and acts of a civil service commission shall be subject to review on the facts and law by a court of competent jurisdiction.

The measure, which Governor Lehman characterizes as "a serious menace to civil service administration in this state," provides also that a court might substitute its discretion in place of the commission's in arriving at a determination.

In a memorandum filed with his veto of the bill, Governor Lehmain said:

"This bill would constitute a serious menace to civil service administration in this state.

"The bill provides:

"Every rule, regulation, resolution, requirement or act of a civil service commission shall be subject to review, both on the law and on the facts, by a court of competent jurisdiction by any person aggrieved thereby.

"The court shall have the right to substitute its discretion in the place of the commission's in arriving at a determination.

"The purpose of this bill is to enact into legislation the type of judicial review which was overwhelmingly repudiated at the polls last year when submitted to the people in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment. The bill has been vigorously con-

No Accidents Mar Holiday in City; 10,000 See Parade

Memorial Day Observances Highlighted by Long Parade at 11 A. M.; One Traffic Arrest

Not a single traffic accident was reported to the Kingston police department on Memorial Day, and traffic through the city was about normal Sunday traffic, according to the police.

The day, which was marked during the morning hours, with one of the best Memorial Day parades held here in years, passed quietly. Only one arrest was made, that of a man charged with speeding 42 miles an hour on Broadway.

10,000 See Parade

The big holiday event yesterday in the city was the annual parade, which was viewed along the line of march estimated at fully 10,000 by the police.

In the vicinity of the city hall and the high school within a two block area fully 5,000 people gathered to witness the parade as it passed the reviewing stand in front of the high school.

Arrangements for keeping Broadway clear of traffic during the hours of the parade were in charge of Lieutenant Charles Phinney, and traffic officers were placed on duty at every street intersection along the line.

Through the efforts of the police Broadway was kept free of moving traffic during the time the parade passed down the thoroughfare.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the crowds began to gather along Broadway to view the parade, which started promptly at 11 o'clock from Pearl street and Clinton avenue and proceeded

Cottekill Boy Is Drowned in Stone Ridge Pond; Astoria Man, Divinite Are Other Victims

Heidecamp Is Injured in Dive From Platform at Spring Lake

Three deaths by drowning and a fourth similar accident, which almost proved fatal to a local youth left a tragic aftermath to summer's prelude which opened yesterday with the customary observance of Memorial Day.

Those who met death by drowning were:

James C. Styles, Jr., nine-year-old youth, of Cottekill, who was drowned in the old mill pond on the Hardenbergh farm, Stone Ridge, yesterday afternoon.

William O'Malley, 23, of Astoria, who also drowned yesterday afternoon in the Rondout creek, below Port Pen Bridge.

Friends Save Heidecamp

The life of Joseph Heidecamp, of 40 Merritt avenue, this city, 17-year-old high school youth, who is a member of the school's swimming team, was saved through thoughtful efforts of his companions at Spring Lake Monday evening.

Young Heidecamp failed to come to the surface after a dive from the platform at the lake, due to an injury he suffered while making the dive. He was rescued through the quick and effective assistance of his friends, who were near him at the time.

Companions of young Heidecamp at first believed he was fooling when he had stayed down for some time after making the dive, but they went to his rescue quickly after noticing bubbles appearing on the surface of the water.

Melvin Robinson Saves Boy

The youth was unconscious when brought to shore by his friends, and Melvin Robinson having been trained to apply artificial respiration, saved his life by that means.

Employes of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation responded to a call, but according to an official of the company did not use the artificial respirator, after efforts of young Robinson, showed definite signs of reviving the youth.

Young Heidecamp was rushed to the Benedictine Hospital following the restoration of breathing by his companion. He was placed under the care of Dr. Thomas F. Crowley.

Respiration efforts were continued at the hospital since the youth remained unconscious for some time after his arrival there. His condition today was reported fair and no serious complications are anticipated.

Had Been Skating

Young Heidecamp with Cleon, William and Melvin Robinson, Richard Banks, George Sickles and Vincent Sickles had been at the Spring Lake roller-rink during the evening and shortly before 11 o'clock stopped off at the lake for a swim. According to the other lads they went to the diving pavilion out in the lake and despite the darkness and the lack of floodlights the lads went in the water. Heidecamp went to the second board and attempted a dive. Apparently he slipped as he left the board and struck some portion of his body on the diving tower. As he struck the water he

Ulster Firemen Will Go to Hudson

FIREMEN'S HOME, HUDSON

Ulster county volunteer firemen will provide their annual entertainment treat at the Firemen's Home in Hudson, June 4, it was announced today.

A variety bill of entertainment has been selected for the occasion and a large delegation of firemen from the county is expected to make the trip.

Delegates, members of the various fire companies and their friends who plan to make the trip will meet at the gate entrance at 2 o'clock and will march into the home headed by the Port Ewen Drum Corps.

Those at the home from Ulster county will be given a special gift by the Ulster Coupnty Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Superintendent William J. Coleman and Mrs. Coleman, of the home have set aside June 4, for the exclusive use of the firemen from Ulster county and the public is invited to see the program. The public will also have an opportunity to inspect the home and the firemen's museum, maintained by the Volunteer Firemen of New York State.

The program has been made up of talent provided through efforts of the various companies of the county. The offers to provide entertainment for the occasion were numerous. The committee in charge, due to limitations, was unable to include all the acts on the bill, but selected what it considers a program which will be well received by those at the home, and the public.

The first building on the site of the present firemen's home was opened June 5, 1895. Additions were made to the building and

Woman Is Held

Brunette, 28, Is Accused of Shooting Detective on Assault Charge

New York, May 31 (AP).—A mid night beer party climaxed by the shooting of a Staten Island policeman, ended in the arrest early today of Mrs. Agnes Osborne, 28-year-old brunette, on a charge of felonious assault.

Detective William Haggerty said the woman admitted shooting Patrolman Emmet Cassidy, 33, with his own service revolver because, she said, "he got fresh."

Doctors at Staten Island said Cassidy, who was shot through the left chest, was so gravely wounded that it was impossible to operate. They held out little hope for his recovery.

Staten Island authorities said Cassidy was separated from his wife. Mrs. Osborne had been separated from her husband for several years.

Heidecamp Is Injured in Dive From Platform at Spring Lake

Three deaths by drowning and a fourth similar accident, which almost proved fatal to a local youth left a tragic aftermath to summer's prelude which opened yesterday with the customary observance of Memorial Day.

Those who met death by drowning were:

James C. Styles, Jr., nine-year-old youth, of Cottekill, who was drowned in the old mill pond on the Hardenbergh farm, Stone Ridge, yesterday afternoon.

William O'Malley, 23, of Astoria, who also drowned yesterday afternoon in the Rondout creek, below Port Pen Bridge.

Friends Save Heidecamp

The life of Joseph Heidecamp, of 40 Merritt avenue, this city, 17-year-old high school youth, who is a member of the school's swimming team, was saved through thoughtful efforts of his companions at Spring Lake Monday evening.

Young Heidecamp failed to come to the surface after a dive from the platform at the lake, due to an injury he suffered while making the dive. He was rescued through the quick and effective assistance of his friends, who were near him at the time.

Companions of young Heidecamp at first believed he was fooling when he had stayed down for some time after making the dive, but they went to his rescue quickly after noticing bubbles appearing on the surface of the water.

Melvin Robinson Saves Boy

The youth was unconscious when brought to shore by his friends, and Melvin Robinson having been trained to apply artificial respiration, saved his life by that means.

Employes of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation responded to a call, but according to an official of the company did not use the artificial respirator, after efforts of young Robinson, showed definite signs of reviving the youth.

Young Heidecamp was rushed to the Benedictine Hospital following the restoration of breathing by his companion. He was placed under the care of Dr. Thomas F. Crowley.

Respiration efforts were continued at the hospital since the youth remained unconscious for some time after his arrival there. His condition today was reported fair and no serious complications are anticipated.

Had Been Skating

Gen. Moseley Says He Warned Craig of Plot

Washington, May 31 (AP)—Major General George Van Horn Moseley, retired, testified today he had repeatedly "warned" General Malin Craig, army chief of staff, about a plot to overthrow the government.

Moseley told the house committee on un-American activities that he received information of the plot in so-called "music scores" sent to him by James E. Campbell of Owensboro, Ky., a reserve army officer.

Governor Vetoes Civil Service Act As Serious Menace

Wicks' Proposal Providing for Review by Courts Is Turned Down; Lehman Files Memorandum

Albany, May 30 (Special)—Disapproval of the Governor has been given to a bill of Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, amending the civil service law, providing that rules, regulations and acts of a civil service commission shall be subject to review on the facts and law by a court of competent jurisdiction.

The measure, which Governor Lehman characterizes as "a serious menace to civil service administration in this state," provides also that a court might substitute its discretion in place of the commission's in arriving at a determination.

In a memorandum filed with his veto of the bill, Governor Lehmain said:

"This bill would constitute a serious menace to civil service administration in this state.

"The bill provides:

"Every rule, regulation, resolution, requirement or act of a civil service commission shall be subject to review, both on the law and on the facts, by a court of competent jurisdiction by any person aggrieved thereby.

"The court shall have the right to substitute its discretion in the place of the commission's in arriving at a determination.

"The purpose of this bill is to enact into legislation the type of judicial review which was overwhelmingly repudiated at the polls last year when submitted to the people in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment. The bill has been vigorously con-

No Accidents Mar Holiday in City; 10,000 See Parade

Memorial Day Observances Highlighted by Long Parade at 11 A. M.; One Traffic Arrest

Not a single traffic accident was reported to the Kingston police department on Memorial Day, and traffic through the city was about normal Sunday traffic, according to the police.

The day, which was marked during the morning hours, with one of the best Memorial Day parades held here in years, passed quietly. Only one arrest was made, that of a man charged with speeding 42 miles an hour on Broadway.

10,000 See Parade

The big holiday event yesterday in the city was the annual parade, which was viewed along the line of march estimated at fully 10,000 by the police.

In the vicinity of the city hall and the high school within a two block area fully 5,000 people gathered to witness the parade as it passed the reviewing stand in front of the high school.

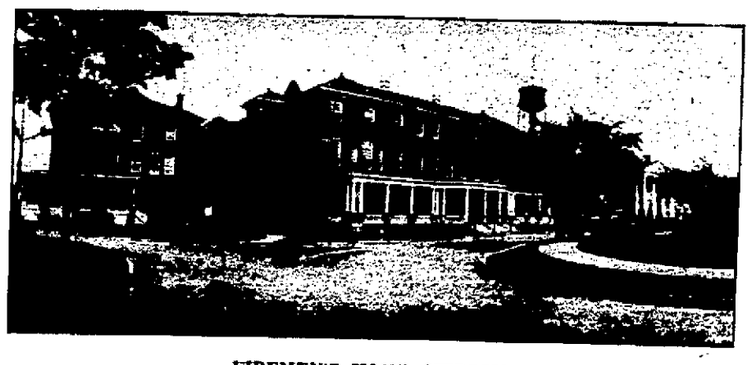

Arrangements for keeping Broadway clear of traffic during the hours of the parade were in charge of Lieutenant Charles Phinney, and traffic officers were placed on duty at every street intersection along the line.

Through the efforts of the police Broadway was kept free of moving traffic during the time the parade passed down the thoroughfare.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the crowds began to gather along Broadway to view the parade, which started promptly at 11 o'clock from Pearl street and Clinton avenue and proceeded

Ulster Firemen Will Go to Hudson

FIREMEN'S HOME, HUDSON

Ulster county volunteer firemen will provide their annual entertainment treat at the Firemen's Home in Hudson, June 4, it was announced today.

A variety bill of entertainment has been selected for the occasion and a large delegation of firemen from the county is expected to make the trip.

Delegates, members of the various fire companies and their friends who plan to make the trip will meet at the gate entrance at 2 o'clock and will march into the home headed by the Port Ewen Drum Corps.

Those at the home from Ulster county will be given a special gift by the Ulster Coupnty Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Superintendent William J. Coleman and Mrs. Coleman, of the home have set aside June 4, for the exclusive use of the firemen from Ulster county and the public is invited to see the program. The public will also have an opportunity to inspect the home and the firemen's museum, maintained by the Volunteer Firemen of New York State.

The program has been made up of talent provided through efforts of the various companies of the county. The offers to provide entertainment for the occasion were numerous. The committee in charge, due to limitations, was unable to include all the acts on the bill, but selected what it considers a program which will be well received by those at the home, and the public.

The first building on the site of the present firemen's home was opened June 5, 1895. Additions were made to the building and

Brunette, 28, Is Accused of Shooting Detective on Assault Charge

New York, May 31 (AP).—A mid night beer party climaxed by the shooting of a Staten Island policeman, ended in the arrest early today of Mrs. Agnes Osborne, 28-year-old brunette, on a charge of felonious assault.

Detective William Haggerty said the woman admitted shooting Patrolman Emmet Cassidy, 33, with his own service revolver because, she said, "he got fresh."

Doctors at Staten Island said Cassidy, who was shot through the left chest, was so gravely wounded that it was impossible to operate. They held out little hope for his recovery.

Staten Island authorities said Cassidy was separated from his wife. Mrs. Osborne had been separated from her husband for several years.

Foreign Exchanges Strong Tuesday

Foreign exchanges were strong yesterday as all markets in the U. S. remained closed for the holiday. Continued easing of the international tension and improvement in Wall street during the past week were reflected in higher prices in London and considerable investment buying was reported. Amsterdam Bourse displayed all around strength, with increased turnover. Prices on the Paris Bourse closed strong, with trading inactive. Berlin Bourse was dull and irregular.

The advance which has marked prices on the New York Exchange for the past ten sessions, with one exception, continued Monday, with transactions totaling 600,000 shares. The industrial issues went ahead a point, in the Dow-Jones averages, closing at 137.80; rails showed a small gain, to 28.21 and utilities were ahead 01.10 point for the day, to 23.75. Steel common went above 50, a new high for the recovery movement.

With some units in the automobile industry already having established maximum production schedules for the balance of the 1939 model season indications are that factory sales will be from 15 to 19 per cent lower the second quarter than they were the first three months.

Steel operations began the week 52.2 per cent of capacity, an increase of 3.8 points over last week, best showing since the week of April 3.

Warner Bros. had indicated profits equal to 39 cents a share for the 13 weeks ended February 25, comparing with 28 cents a share earned in the same period year ago. General Gas & Electric shows net income of $1,226,367, for the 12 months ended March 31, compared with net of $972,017 in preceding year.

White Rock Mineral Springs Co. reports net of $38,927 for quarter ended March 31, equal to dividends on seven per cent preferred and seven cents a share on 250,000 shares of common which will be outstanding when second preferred has been converted into common.

Receivers for New Haven road estimate a rise of more than $1,400,000 in the road's cash balance by the end of July as compared with May 1.

Survey made by the American Institute of Food Distribution shows that retail and wholesale movements of food in May ran behind the unsatisfactory dollar volume of May last year, although results varied widely in different sections of the country. There were substantial declines in the coal strike regions and in the drouth threatened section of the west and the mountain states volume was lower.

National Steel declared a dividend of 40 cents on capital stock. Goebel Brewing declared a quarterly of five cents; paid a similar amount on December 28 last. Ala-Co. declared $3 on ordinary stock, also $3 on preferred. Holland Furnace Co. voted 50 cents on common and South Penn Oil pays regular quarterly of 37½ cents.

It is stated that in a draft report prepared by the Ways and Means committee for submission to the House there is an admission that the Federal old age pension system will break down within 12 to 15 years, unless in the meantime Congress acts to provide additional revenue. It is expected that the report will state that the annual cost of old age pension benefits may begin to exceed the annual tax collections in about 1955, or even somewhat sooner. It is estimated that annual benefits will begin to exceed pay-roll tax collections about 1954, at which time the reserve fund will be about $7,750,000,000, which is about three times the estimated annual benefit payments.

City Court Cases

Tony Diandiac of West Hurley was fined $5 by Judge Cahill in police court this morning when arraigned on a charge of speeding 42 miles an hour on Broadway on Tuesday. This was the first arrest for speeding in Kingston this year.

Harold Post, 41, of 202 Fair street, was turned over to the police shortly after 3 o'clock by his mother, Mrs. Minnie Post, who charged him with disorderly conduct in using loud and profane language. Post was sentenced to 180 days in jail by Judge Cahill, but the serving of the sentence was suspended, provided he remained away from his mother's home.

New York, May 31 (AP)—The stock market idled along a narrow path today after meeting resistance in an early attempt to carry on the recent slow advance.

Fractional gains and losses appeared throughout the list near the final hour. Trading expanded a little after the Memorial Day recess but slackened as the rise played out.

Transactions ran at the rate of about 700,000 shares for the full session.

Commodities and bonds mostly moved ahead. Wheat advanced.

Showing minor changes either way at one time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, Anaconda, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Santa Fe, General Electric and Goodyear.

In the curb, fractional gains ruled most of the time in American Cyanamid B, Creole Petroleum and Lockheed. American Gas & Electric spurted more than a point.

Leading building stocks came to the front for a while. Johns Manville and U. S. Gypsum sold a point or two higher.

History Society To Meet June 5

The story of the daughter of a rich merchant of Amsterdam, Holland, who came to this country and twice married, both times to ministers of the old Dutch Reformed Church whose names were notable in the early history of the Colonies and who, herself, had a very remarkable influence upon the religious life of her times, will be told at the literary meeting of the Ulster County Historical Society to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday, June 5, at 11 a. m.

The woman was Dina Van Berg and the telling of her life story by the Rev. Dr. William H. Demarest, president emeritus of Rutgers College, it is expected, will make this June meeting of the Historical Society one of the most interesting ever held.

Dina Van Berg married first the Rev. John Frelinghuysen and following his death, the Rev. Jacob Rutsen Hardenberg. She was the mother of General Frederick Frelinghuysen of the Revolutionary War, later a senator of the United States. She was a neighbor of General Washington and a friend of the family.

After her marriage to the Rev. Jacob Rutsen Hardenberg, who lived in the Hardenberg house near the ford at Rosendale, she brought her Frelinghuysen children with her to Rosendale. She served as pastor's wife in the Ulster county parishes of Stone Ridge, Rochester and Wawarsing.

One student of her times says that the distinction of the Frelinghuysen family in New Jersey is generally ascribed to the inheritance of the blood of Dina Van Berg.

Proclamation Aids 'Mile of Dimes'

To secure funds to repair the swimming pool, the local Y. M. C. A. on Saturday will stage "The Mile of Dimes." The drive has been approved by Mayor C. J. Heiselman, who today issued the following proclamation:

I, as mayor of the city of Kingston, hereby proclaim Saturday, June 3, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., the date on which the special solicitation to be known as "The Mile of Dimes" will be conducted by the Y. M. C. A. groups to secure funds to repair the swimming pool.

I further urge your cooperation with your financial support so that this institution may continue to teach our young folk the art of swimming and life saving under trained leadership throughout the year. As you no doubt are aware, the Y. M. C. A. pool is the only indoor pool in Ulster or Greene counties.

CONRAD J. HEISELMAN,
Mayor.

Bridge Gives Way To Loaded Truck

A truck from the Dutton Lumber Co., Poughkeepsie, with lumber intended for Joseph Rampe's yard at Ulster Heights, broke through the bridge over the Beerkill, on the Cape Road, Ellenville, about 8:30 o'clock Monday morning. The driver of the truck is reported to have been not seriously injured and the truck itself was not damaged as badly as might have been expected.

A gang of men in charge of William Fleckenstein, town superintendent of highways, immediately got busy repairing the bridge and it was to have been ready for use this morning.

Starfish Digests Food By 'Reverse' Process

The starfish reverses the usual gustatory and digestive procedure of fish and even humans, since instead of taking food into his stomach, he wraps his stomach around the food and digests it. When he gets through eating, he pulls his stomach back into his body and starts looking for another meal. Incidentally, oysters are his favorite meat.

"When a starfish finds a cluster of oysters, he wraps himself around it, with his star-like legs clutching the base of the cluster and the underside of his body, where his stomach is located, next to the tip of the oyster," said Dr. H. F. Prytherch, director of the United States biological laboratory on Piver's island, North Carolina. "The starfish then exudes a fluid that has the effect of anestizing the oyster so that the main muscle will relax and the shell open.

"After the anesthetic takes effect and the shell opens, the starfish then pushes his stomach out of his own body, into the oyster shell and around the oyster, leaving it there until he has digested it completely. Then he repeats the process on another oyster."

In the northern oyster beds, and down as far as Chesapeake bay, starfish are among the worst enemies of the oystermen and eat up more than $1,000,000 worth of oysters a year, according to Dr. Prytherch. But starfish are not very numerous as yet in North Carolina waters and oyster beds, so that they are not yet doing much damage. Dr. Prytherch is trying to work out a method of getting rid of starfish without injuring the oysters.

To show how voracious starfish are and the rate at which they eat oysters, Dr. Prytherch has had nine starfish in a laboratory tank for slightly more than four months, during which time they have opened and digested more than 1,400 oysters.

Use of Colored Glasses May Be Habit Forming

Many colored eyeglasses are habit forming and should be used only on professional prescription, particularly by children. Few adults and fewer children have "supersensitive" eyes; normal eyes need the protection of tinted glasses only in extreme glaring sunlight, as when fishing, mountain climbing, or driving over long stretches of white pavement. Free wearing of colored glasses is liable to render eyes abnormally sensitive, and dependent upon artificial protection. Other vacation hints: Avoiding crowded bathing beaches may also avoid infantile paralysis and other dread diseases. Summer can be harder on children than winter, early sunrise and extended evenings making their active hours unduly long. Children often lose weight in summer, and reach school time browned but nervous, and far from rested. Special care is needed to see that they have adequate sleep; nine hours per night should be a minimum. Summer meals should be planned to assure the children their necessary milk, eggs, fish, etc., which they need to a much greater degree than desk-working adults.

Farm Land Loses Food

More than 54,700,000 tons of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash—the three major plant foods which make the production of crops possible—are removed from the soil of American farms every year by erosion, harvested crops, leaching, burning and other causes. Commercial fertilizers and manures are believed to restore only 18 per cent of the nitrogen loss, 44 per cent of the phosphorus loss and about 6 per cent of the potash loss. While programs to promote soil conservation are being effectively supported by the U. S. department of agriculture, soil scientists, teachers, agricultural colleges and county agents, the need for a more universal use of fertilizer is shown by the fact that the consumption of fertilizers in the United States annually is at the rate of a little more than a ton per farm.

Bets on Wrong Horse

Omaha, Neb., May 31 (AP)—Mrs. John Donoghue, Omaha, bet on the wrong horse. She won $1,759.50. Mrs. Donoghue, a bookkeeper's wife, explained she wanted to bet on No. three horse and No. 11 horse in the Ak-Sar-Ben race track daily double. At the ticket window, she made a mistake and called for No. 4 in the first race and No. 11 in the second. Both horses won, and Mrs. Donoghue collected. She held one of two winning daily double tickets.

Many Vaccinated

Sparta, Tenn., May 31 (AP)—More than 2,000 persons have been vaccinated in the last four days in White county in an effort to curtail an outbreak of smallpox. Dr. E. B. Clark, county health officer, said today control of the disease's spread was hampered because the first cases discovered were diagnosed as chicken pox. Dr. Clark reported 29 new cases last night brought the current total in the county to 100.

Fate Catches Up

Memphis, Tenn., May 31 (AP)—Two months ago 24-year-old Hope Brewster, pretty violinist, created something of a sensation when she brought a $2 skiff and paddled for 19 hours alone down the Mississippi river to Helena, Ark. She made the hazardous trip without mishap. Yesterday, on an outing with members of the Memphis Academy of Arts, Miss Brewster tripped over a logging chain, fracturing her ankle.

Rotarians Deliver Van Ingen Tribute; Kiwanians Present

Today was "Van Ingen Day" at Kingston Rotary, and just to make the tribute to the retiring superintendent of Kingston schools unanimous, the Rotarians invited members of Kiwanis to join with them in their noon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

About 90 members of the two service clubs, with guests, were present to pay tribute to the guest of honor who, as it happens, is a member of Rotary and their president-elect.

President Eugene Pembleton presided at the meeting and after some brief items of business were transacted introduced Edward M. Huben, president of Kiwanis.

Mr. Huben expressed the pleasure of the Kiwanians at being permitted to take part in the program of the day. He said that they honored and loved Mr. Van Ingen, some of them as former students, others as parents whose children had been committed to his care. His untiring efforts for the community were appreciated, said the speaker, and Rotarians were congratulated on having chosen for their next president a man who had such a fine combination of desirable characteristics, among them being sincerity, friendliness and a charming personality.

James F. Loughran was called upon to present his friend, Edward Moore, of Norwich, editor of the Chenango Union. Mr. Moore referred to the days when Mr. Van Ingen was located at Norwich and said that he had known him in those days as a Christian gentleman, a loyal friend, in addition to being a distinguished educator. He then introduced another old time acquaintance of the guest of the day, the Hon. David Lee of Norwich and Binghamton, a former Justice of the Supreme Court.

Judge Moore paid his tribute to Mr. Van Ingen and his work he had done in the schools of Norwich, some 35 years ago. The men who are active in business and professional life in Norwich today are better men because of his influence during the ten years he was in that city, said the speaker. He told of Mr. Van Ingen's interest in community affairs, the Y. M. C. A. and other organizations and his advice to his scholars that "it never pays to quit." Incidentally, said the judge, it was in the last year of Mr. Van Ingen's stay in Norwich that their football team hung up a record of 108 points scored while their opponents were accumulating exactly nothing.

Judge Lee asked his hearers if as a rule sufficient respect and consideration were given to men who were directing educational activities. He said we ask a great deal of them—that they be "supreme in character, the best citizens, friendly and vigorous in mind and in physique." Above all their qualities, however, he placed "the spirit of helpfulness that men like Van Ingen show toward their scholars." In closing he wished for the retiring superintendent many years of health, happiness and joy.

U. S. Builds Up Forest Reserve

Tree Planting in 1938 Tops 140,000,000; Michigan Leads Country.

WASHINGTON.—The national forest service made long strides last year toward building up a forest reserve by planting more than 140,000,000 trees.

The service supervised the planting of 154,268 acres of deforested land in 31 states at an average cost of $10 an acre. It estimated that timber produced by the trees would be worth $7,000,000.

The largest number of trees in any state was 44,885,000 planted in Michigan. More than 1,000,000 trees each were planted in Wisconsin, Mississippi, Louisiana, Minnesota, Texas, Washington, Alabama, Colorado, Illinois, Arkansas, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Indiana.

Pine Trees Most Popular.

The service reported that 28 different tree species were planted. Five members of the extensive pine family—red, jack, white, longleaf and slash—represented 88 per cent of all trees planted.

Most of the young trees set out in the national forests were grown in the 28 forest service nurseries. Approximately 20 tons of coniferous tree seed and five tons of hardwood seed were used to produce the young trees.

Extension of the reforestation program, the service said, was made possible by the Civilian Conservation corps. Planting crews were made up entirely of CCC enrollees, unemployed local residents and relief labor.

Most extensive planting operations were reported in the Gulf and Lake states, where adequate natural reproduction has failed to follow the heavy cutting and repeated fires.

Michigan Forest Foremost.

The Manistee national forest on the Lake Michigan shore of the Lower Peninsula led the 74 national forests where planting was done last year with 17,984 acres. Three other national forests reporting more than 10,000 acres planted were the DeSoto in southern Mississippi, the Nicolet in northern Wisconsin, and the Upper Michigan national forest.

In Michigan the service planted 41,022 acres in longleaf and slash pine; Wisconsin, 23,042 acres of red and jack pine; Mississippi, 20,260 acres of longleaf and slash pine; Louisiana, 14,022 acres of longleaf and slash pine.

Other states included Texas, 9,852 acres in longleaf and slash pine; Minnesota, 9,030 acres in red and jack pine; Washington, 7,432 acres in Douglas fir; Idaho, 3,836 acres in ponderosa and western white pine; Colorado, 3,805 acres in ponderosa pine, and Alabama, 3,089 acres in longleaf and slash pine.

Great Pageant Will Be Staged at Kenilworth

LONDON. — Kenilworth castle, which played a large role in the lives of the early kings of England and which was later used as a romantic setting for Sir Walter Scott's novels, will review its history this summer in a great pageant. The red sandstone walls of the castle are to be used as a background for the performers, who will represent many of the chief personages of old England.

"Edward Longshanks" will attempt to storm the castle, "Queen Elizabeth" will enter the arena through the king's gate, as she did in 1575, and Shakespeare's Falstaff will show his method of raising troops for the king's army. The nine episodes of the pageant will be concluded by a scene in which the ghost of Sir Walter Scott revisits the castle and reviews the glories of its past.

Research Is Undertaken to Improve Wood Stoves

NORTHFIELD, VT.—More efficient use for wood for heating and other household purposes is expected to result from studies now being made at Norwich university bureau of industrial research.

Director Douglas E. Howes says that by using the principle of slow combustion the wood is distilled into gas and let into a chamber to be burned under the most favorable conditions possible.

He says that stoves based on this principle are now in use in Germany, Sweden and Switzerland, but that their design is not adaptable to American households.

The combustion efficiency of these stoves, Howes adds, ranges from 75 to 90 per cent against 55 per cent and much lower in ordinary stoves.

'Cinderella Town' Changes Its Name

SEAFORD, DEL.—This little southern Delaware community was dubbed the "Cinderella Town" when it first was learned that a $7,000,000 duPont company plant would be built here. But—with the anticipated boom revolving around construction of the plant—residents of neighboring communities called Seaford "The Million Dollar Town," "The Magic City," and "The Hot Spot of the Peninsula."

Both Parties Agree Townsend Bill Doomed in House

Strategy of Sending Bill Back to Committee Is Possible to Prevent Any Commitments

Washington, May 31 (AP)—The Townsend bill to pay old age pensions up to $200 a month reached the House floor today after years of intensive nationwide campaigning and political controversy.

But no amount of debate, both Democrats and Republicans agreed, will keep the House from defeating it when the roll finally is called tomorrow.

Representative Boland of Pennsylvania, the Democratic whip, estimated there would be not more than 50 Democratic and 75 Republican votes for the bill.

Rep. Hendricks (D.-Fla.), author of the measure, said he had requests for speech-making time from 30 proponents. Each side was allotted two hours for presenting its case.

Two Chances for Upset

Only two chances remained for upsetting the Democratic leadership's carefully laid plan to kill the bill by a resounding majority. Some Republicans were understood to be fighting parliamentary procedure which would prevent any change in the measure on the House floor. If they should succeed—and Democratic leaders predicted they would not—the bill might be so modified as to win some supporters.

Then, when all debate is finished, a motion will be in order tomorrow to send the bill back to the ways and means committee for further consideration. This strategy, some sources declared, was calculated to appeal to members who might not wish to go on record for or against the measure.

The bill would provide:

Pensions up to $200 a month for persons 60 years old and over who are not gainfully employed or in prison. Some statisticians have estimated it probably would pay about $50 a month at the start.

A graduated "gross revenue" or transactions tax, ranging from one-half of one per cent on producing, manufacturing, wholesaling and jobbing businesses up to two per cent on "other business," including retailing.

Beneficiaries would have to spend their pensions within the first five days of the next month.

Body of Unidentified Man Found at Loch Sheldrake

Tuesday the body of an unidentified man with seven stab wounds and five bullet wounds in his chest and abdomen was recovered from the waters of Loch Sheldrake when it rose to the surface about ten feet from the north shore.

Dr. Harry Jacobs of Hurleyville who examined the body stated it had apparently been in the water since last fall, and had risen to the surface when sashweights fastened to the arms and legs had fallen from decayed cords. Four sashweights were still attached to one wrist when the body was recovered.

The only marks by which investigators hoped to establish the man's identity were labels on the clothing and cleaner's marks.

To Honor Governor

Canton (AP)—The memory of New York's governor, Silas Wright, is to be perpetuated by means of an oil portrait through the efforts of Williston Manley, editor of the St. Lawrence Plaindealer and State Insurance Superintendent Louis H. Pink. Pink, a St. Lawrence graduate, discovered last summer there was no picture of the 16th governor hanging with portraits of other state executives in the reception room opening into Albany's executive chambers. He launched a fund drive, with Manley's aid, and a portrait will be painted from photos of Wright, once known as "The Cato of America."

Hitchock of Rye, will be in charge of a round table discussion on "Our Osteopathic Findings in Disorders of Obscure Origin."

Following the business session and dinner, Dr. Albert W. Bailey of Schenectady, president of the New York State Osteopathic Society, will be one of the evening's speakers.

Court to Convene Monday Afternoon

County Judge Frederick G. Traver will open the June trial term of county court Monday, June 5, at 2 o'clock when civil business will be taken up. The first week will be devoted to civil matters and it is likely that the civil work may extend into the second week of the term as it has been announced that the negligence action brought by Peter J. Schreiber of Connelly agains The Callanan Road Improvement Company, Inc., will again be tried. The case was tried at the last term of county court and resulted in a disagreement of the jury.

Mr. Schreiber seeks to recover for damages to his house at Connelly which he claims was damaged through the explosion of heavy blasts at the Callanan quarry at Mingo Hollow.

Criminal matters will be taken up at the conclusion of the civil cases.

Government Cost Billion Greater

ments to farmers and flood control, account for sizable chunks of the increase. A $20,000,000 boost was charged up against the forthcoming decennial census, which must be taken in 1940.

Five of the appropriation bills have been signed by the President. The others are pending before the Senate or joint Senate-House Committees.

Although the House held all but two of the measures below the budget estimates, the Senate increased the totals on several, notably when it added $338,000,000 for parity payments to farmers and disposal of surplus commodities. This appropriation has not yet received final congressional approval.

The House exceeded budget estimates in voting funds for flood control and river and harbor improvements. It added $50,000,000 to the War Department (nonmilitary functions) appropriation bill.

A Senate appropriations subcommittee, however, has eliminated the $500,000,000 fund, and a House bloc may try to allocate some of the new relief money for that purpose.

Foreign Exchanges Strong Tuesday

Foreign exchanges were strong yesterday as all markets in the U. S. remained closed for the holiday. Continued easing of the international tension and improvement in Wall street during the past week were reflected in higher prices in London and considerable investment buying was reported. Amsterdam Bourse displayed all around strength, with increased turnover. Prices on the Paris Bourse closed strong, with trading inactive. Berlin Bourse was dull and irregular.

The advance which has marked prices on the New York Exchange for the past ten sessions, with one exception, continued Monday, with transactions totaling 600,000 shares. The industrial issues went ahead a point, in the Dow-Jones averages, closing at 137.80; rails showed a small gain, to 28.21, and utilities were ahead 01.10 point for the day, to 23.75. Steel common went above 50, a new high for the recovery movement.

With some units in the automobile industry already having established maximum production schedules for the balance of the 1939 model season indications are that factory sales will be from 15 to 19 per cent lower the second quarter than they were the first three months.

Steel operations began the week 52.2 per cent of capacity, an increase of 3.8 points over last week, best showing since the week of April 3.

Warner Bros. had indicated profits equal to 39 cents a share for the 13 weeks ended February 25, comparing with 28 cents a share earned in the same period year ago. General Gas & Electric shows net income of $1,226,367, for the 12 months ended March 31, compared with net of $972,017 in preceding year.

White Rock Mineral Springs Co. reports net of $38,927 for quarter ended March 31, equal to dividends on seven per cent preferred and seven cents a share on 250,000 shares of common which will be outstanding when second preferred has been converted into common.

Receivers for New Haven road estimate a rise of more than $1,400,000 in the road's cash balance by the end of July as compared with May 1.

Survey made by the American Institute of Food Distribution shows that retail and wholesale movements of food in May ran behind the unsatisfactory dollar volume of May last year, although results varied widely in different sections of the country. There were substantial declines in the coal strike regions and in the drouth threatened section of the west and the mountain states volume was lower.

National Steel declared a dividend of 40 cents on capital stock. Goebel Brewing declared a quarterly of five cents; paid a similar amount on December 28 last. Ala-Co. declared $3 on ordinary stock, also $3 on preferred. Holland Furnace Co. voted 50 cents on common and South Penn Oil pays regular quarterly of 37½ cents.

It is stated that in a draft report prepared by the Ways and Means committee for submission to the House there is an admission that the Federal old age pension system will break down within 12 to 15 years, unless in the meantime Congress acts to provide additional revenue. It is expected that the report will state that the annual cost of old age pension benefits may begin to exceed the annual tax collections in about 1955, or even somewhat sooner. It is estimated that annual benefits will begin to exceed pay-roll tax collections about 1951, at which time the reserve fund will be about $7,750,000,000, which is about three times the estimated annual benefit payments.

New York, May 31 (AP)—The stock market idled along a narrow path today after meeting resistance in an early attempt to carry on the recent slow advance.

Fractional gains and losses appeared throughout the list near the final hour. Trading expanded a little after the Memorial Day recess but slackened as the rise played out.

Transactions ran at the rate of about 700,000 shares for the full session.

Commodities and bonds mostly moved ahead. Wheat advanced.

Showing minor changes either way at one time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Telephone, Anaconda, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Santa Fe, General Electric and Goodyear.

In the curb, fractional gains ruled most of the time in American Cyanamid B, Creole Petroleum and Lockheed. American Gas & Electric spurted more than a point.

Leading building stocks came to the front for a while. Johns Manville and U. S. Gypsum sold a point or two higher.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 15 Broad street, New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

City Court Cases

Tony Diandiac of West Hurley was fined $5 by Judge Cahill in police court this morning when arraigned on a charge of speeding 42 miles an hour on Broadway on Tuesday. This was the first arrest for speeding in Kingston this year.

Harold Post, 41, of 202 Fair street, was turned over to the police shortly after 3 o'clock by his mother, Mrs. Minnie Post, who charged him with disorderly conduct in using loud and profane language. Post was sentenced to 180 days in jail by Judge Cahill, but the serving of the sentence was suspended, provided he remained away from his mother's home.

History Society To Meet June 5

The story of the daughter of a rich merchant of Amsterdam, Holland, who came to this country and twice married, both times to ministers of the old Dutch Reformed Church whose names were notable in the early history of the Colonies and who, herself, had a very remarkable influence upon the religious life of her times, will be told at the literary meeting of the Ulster County Historical Society to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday, June 5, at 11 a. m.

The woman was Dina Van Berg and the telling of her life story by the Rev. Dr. William H. Demarest, president emeritus of Rutgers College, it is expected, will make this June meeting of the Historical Society one of the most interesting ever held.

Dina Van Berg married first the Rev. John Frelinghuysen and following his death, the Rev. Jacob Rutsen Hardenberg. She was the mother of General Frederick Frelinghuysen of the Revolutionary War, later a senator of the United States. She was a neighbor of General Washington and a friend of the family.

After her marriage to the Rev. Jacob Rutsen Hardenberg, who lived in the Hardenberg house near the ford at Rosendale, she brought her Frelinghuysen children with her to Rosendale. She served as pastor's wife in the Ulster county parishes of Stone Ridge, Rochester and Wawarsing.

One student of her times says that the distinction of the Frelinghuysen family in New Jersey is generally ascribed to the inheritance of the blood of Dina Van Berg.

Bridge Gives Way To Loaded Truck

A truck from the Dutton Lumber Co., Poughkeepsie, with lumber intended for Joseph Rampe's yard at Ulster Heights, broke through the bridge over the Beerkill, on the Cape Road, Ellenville, about 8:30 o'clock Monday morning. The driver of the truck is reported to have been not seriously injured and the truck itself was not damaged as badly as might have been expected.

A gang of men in charge of William Fleckenstein, town superintendent of highways, immediately got busy repairing the bridge and it was to have been ready for use this morning.

Meanwhile all travel was detoured up the Greenfield and Briggs Street road thence by a cross road to the Ulster Heights road.

Starfish Digests Food By 'Reverse' Process

The starfish reverses the usual gustatory and digestive procedure of fish and even humans, since instead of taking food into his stomach, he wraps his stomach around the food and digests it. When he gets through eating, he pulls his stomach back into his body and starts looking for another meal. Incidentally, oysters are his favorite meat.

"When a starfish finds a cluster of oysters, he wraps himself around it, with his star-like legs clutching the base of the cluster and the underside of his body, where his stomach is located, next to the tip of the oyster," said Dr. H. F. Prytherch, director of the United States biological laboratory on Piver's island, North Carolina. "The starfish then exudes a fluid that has the effect of anestizing the oyster so that the main muscle will relax and the shell open.

"After the anesthetic takes effect and the shell opens, the starfish then pushes his stomach out of his own body, into the oyster shell and around the oyster, leaving it there until he has digested it completely. Then he repeats the process on another oyster."

In the northern oyster beds, and down as far as Chesapeake bay, starfish are among the worst enemies of the oystermen and eat up more than $1,000,000 worth of oysters a year, according to Dr. Prytherch. But starfish are not very numerous as yet in North Carolina waters and oyster beds, so that they are not yet doing much damage. Dr. Prytherch is trying to work out a method of getting rid of starfish without injuring the oysters.

To show how voracious starfish are and the rate at which they eat oysters, Dr. Prytherch has had nine starfish in a laboratory tank for slightly more than four months, during which time they have opened and digested more than 1,400 oysters.

Use of Colored Glasses May Be Habit Forming

Many colored eyeglasses are habit forming and should be used only on professional prescription, particularly by children. Few adults and fewer children have "supersensitive" eyes; normal eyes need the protection of tinted glasses only in extreme glaring sunlight, as when fishing, mountain climbing, or driving over long stretches of white pavement. Free wearing of colored glasses is liable to render eyes abnormally sensitive, and dependent upon artificial protection. Other vacation hints: Avoiding crowded bathing beaches may also avoid infantile paralysis and other dread diseases. Summer can be harder on children than winter, early sunrise and extended evenings making their active hours unduly long. Children often lose weight in summer, and reach school time browned but nervous, and far from rested. Special care is needed to see that they have adequate sleep; nine hours per night should be a minimum. Summer meals should be planned to assure the children their necessary milk, eggs, fish, etc., which they need to a much greater degree than desk-working adults.

Farm Land Loses Food

More than 54,700,000 tons of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash—the three major plant foods which make the production of crops possible—are removed from the soil of American farms every year by erosion, harvested crops, leaching, burning and other causes. Commercial fertilizers and manures are believed to restore only 18 per cent of the nitrogen loss, 44 per cent of the phosphorus loss and about 6 per cent of the potash loss. While programs to promote soil conservation are being effectively supported by the U. S department of agriculture, soil scientists, teachers, agricultural colleges and county agents, the need for a more universal use of fertilizer is shown by the fact that the consumption of fertilizers in the United States annually is at the rate of a little more than a ton per farm.

Bets on Wrong Horse

Omaha, Neb., May 31 (AP).—Mrs. John Donoghue, Omaha, bet on the wrong horse. She won $1,759.50. Mrs. Donoghue, a bookkeeper's wife, explained she wanted to bet on No. three horse and No. 11 horse in the Ak-Sar-Ben race track daily double. At the ticket window, she made a mistake and called for No. 4 in the first race and No. 11 in the second. Both horses won, and Mrs. Donoghue collected. She held one of two winning daily double tickets.

Sparta, Tenn., May 31 (AP)—More than 2,000 persons have been vaccinated in the last four days in White county in an effort to curtail an outbreak of smallpox. Dr. E. B. Clark, county health officer, said today control of the disease's spread was hampered because the first cases discovered were diagnosed as chicken pox. Dr. Clark reported 29 new cases last night brought the current total in the county to 100.

Fate Catches Up

Memphis, Tenn., May 31 (AP)—Two months ago 24-year-old Hope Brewster, pretty violinist, created something of a sensation when she brought a $2 skiff and paddled for 19 hours alone down the Mississippi river to Helena, Ark. She made the hazardous trip without mishap. Yesterday, on an outing with members of the Memphis Academy of Arts, Miss Brewster tripped over a logging chain, fracturing her ankle.

Rotarians Deliver Van Ingen Tribute; Kiwanians Present

Today was "Van Ingen Day" at Kingston Rotary, and just to make the tribute to the retiring superintendent of Kingston schools unanimous, the Rotarians invited members of Kiwanis to join with them in their noon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

About 90 members of the two service clubs, with guests, were present to pay tribute to the guest of honor who, as it happens, is a member of Rotary and their president-elect.

President Eugene Pembleton presided at the meeting and after some brief items of business were transacted introduced Edward M. Huben, president of Kiwanis.

Mr. Huben expressed the pleasure of the Kiwanians at being permitted to take part in the program of the day. He said that they honored and loved Mr. Van Ingen, some of them as former students, others as parents whose children had been committed to his care. His untiring efforts for the community were appreciated, said the speaker, and Rotarians were congratulated on having chosen for their next president a man who had such a fine combination of desirable characteristics, among them being sincerity, friendliness and a charming personality.

James F. Loughran was called upon to present his friend, Edward Moore, of Norwich, editor of the Chenango Union. Mr. Moore referred to the days when Mr. Van Ingen was located at Norwich and said that he had known him in those days as a Christian gentleman, a loyal friend, in addition to being a distinguished educator. He then introduced another old time acquaintance of the guest of the day, the Hon. David Lee of Norwich and Binghamton, a former Justice of the Supreme Court.

Judge Moore paid his tribute to Mr. Van Ingen and his work he had done in the schools of Norwich, some 35 years ago. The men who are active in business and professional life in Norwich today are better men because of his influence during the ten years he was in that city, said the speaker. He told of Mr. Van Ingen's interest in community affairs, the Y. M. C. A. and other organizations and his advice to his scholars that "it never pays to quit." Incidentally, said the judge, it was in the last year of Mr. Van Ingen's stay in Norwich that their football team hung up a record of 108 points scored while their opponents were accumulating exactly nothing.

Judge Lee asked his hearers if as a rule sufficient respect and consideration were given to men who were directing educational activities. He said we ask a great deal of them—that they be "supreme in character, the best citizens, friendly and vigorous in mind and in physique." Above all their qualities, however, he placed "the spirit of helpfulness that men like Van Ingen show toward their scholars." In closing he wished for the retiring superintendent many years of health, happiness and joy.

Guests at the meeting Wednesday included: Rotary, Edward Moore, Judge Lee, Sergeant Martin of Kingston and Tom Webster of New Rochelle; Kiwanis, Clarence L. Dumm and Floyd Terwilliger of Shokan.

ANTI-NOISE ORDINANCE

The City of Kingston has an anti-noise ordinance which should be enforced. "Canned music wagons", which travel over the streets of the city and violate the law, should receive immediate attention from the police. Taxpayers expect the police to enforce all the laws.

Monday a "ballyhoo blaster" emitting loud and raucously was permitted to disturb and distress citizens of the city and the holiday visitors in our midst. Police authorities declared that they could do nothing to stop the nuisance until a complaint was filed by a resident. It would seem to us after perusal of the local law that the anti-noise ordinance is sufficiently clear and lucid to warrant action by the police without the necessity of a citizen filing complaint. When citizens are jolted to jitters from a nuisance they look to the police for protection. The police should give this protection when in their judgment the anti-noise ordinance is violated. If the police cannot act under the local law then the law should be changed.

It is true that the racket is cut out when in the hospital zone, but all residents, who are ill or convalescing, are not in the hospitals.

Section One of the local ordinance prohibiting unnecessary noises and noises detrimental to health follows:

Section 1. All ringing of gongs and bells and all blowing of horns and whistles, and all noises which are detrimental to public health, or that disturb the public peace and quiet, or that annoys, endangers or injures, the comfort, repose or health of any considerable number of persons, or unnecessary noises, except the giving of any signals required by law, are hereby prohibited in the City of Kingston. All signals required by law of any steam or electric railroad company, or in connection with the operation of locomotives, motor vehicles, or other vehicles, or otherwise, shall be given in such a way as shall be reasonable and proper and only to the extent that the law absolutely requires and so as to disturb the public peace and quiet no more than shall be necessary to comply with such law.

AUTOCRACIES HEDGING

The autocratic governments are getting scared by the defensive net the threatened democracies are drawing around them. So instead of the insolent threats to which Hitler and Mussolini have accustomed the world, they begin to hedge.

Virginio Gayda, clever Roman spokesman for the Nazi-Fascist "axis," says accusingly: "Will the two imperial democracies (Britain and France), which have taken the initiative, launch themselves blindly toward an extreme conflict, or will they withdraw from this array of opposing forces inspiration for a new policy, more cautious but more generous?"

He adds that Italy and Germany will not take the initiative in starting war, but they insist "that Europe be made over, and that as a starter it be definitely freed from a system of political inequalities which create true dictatorship international affairs by the imperial democracies, over the so-called dictatorships of the axis."

All this elegant language seems to mean that the two militarist powers which started the whole trouble, and were going to grab what they wanted wherever they found it, are now piping down and merely asking a square deal for themselves.

They should have it, if they will play cricket according to the rules, and not resort to medieval brigandage for what they want.

Germany and Italy both have grievances and legitimate claims, which are more likely to be satisfied by peaceful means than by war. If they stop blustering and threatening, world sentiment can probably be counted on to make the "imperial democracies" give them a new deal as regards colonies and materials. But they will have to convince the world of their good faith by practical deeds.

FORGOTTEN ROMEO

All the world is said to love a lover, and nearly all the visitors to Verona, Italy, send fan mail to the "true and faithful Juliet."

Shakespeare might be surprised to learn that there are in that city a house and a tomb said to be the home and the grave of that hapless bride. Outside the tomb there is a small letter box reserved for "mail for Juliet." The tradition is that visitors who drop a message in the box will be lucky in love.

The strange thing about all this is that Romeo is ignored. No guides try to show the house in which he lived. There is no mail box for letters to him. Why should there be? He has no tradition and no fan mail.

We seem to gather from proceedings over in Canada, that the King and Queen are easier to please in matters of dress and manners than our own style-dictators.

Won't it be terrible if the nations get all armed up, regardless of expenses, and then discover that they have nothing to fight about?

Take 'em as fact or fiction—and people can and do take 'em both ways—the revelations of the Dies committee are certainly thrilling.

Wars may be won not only on the playgrounds of Eton but in the cornerstone-layings of Canada.

Another evidence of the bitter racial struggle in Europe—German beer is no longer sold in Polish restaurants.

No matter how strong a dictator's will may be, there always comes a time when the people say "I won't."

Now that vehicular traffic is pretty well regulated, how about getting pedestrians to keep to the right on the sidewalk?

Seems as if they just can't get a good-neighbor policy started in Europe.

COLD TO WARM WEATHER DIET

One of the benefits to children and adults of northern communities due to quick transportation —truck and train — is the fresh vegetables and fruits obtainable at reasonable prices before the home vegetables and fruits are available.

In past years, during the cold weather "heavy" foods were eaten to keep the body warm, and as fresh fruits and vegetables were scarce and expensive, by the time spring arrived youngsters were thought to be pretty well "stuffed up" by this heavy food and a generous dose of sulphur and molasses was given. This clearing out of the bowel and blood likely did more good than harm, at that.

Even in cold weather, now, fresh fruit and vegetables can be obtained at reasonable prices and also canned fruit and vegetables which have practically all their food, mineral and vitamin value available.

However, with the majority of us the total amount of food should be cut down as the warm weather approaches because there is no longer the need of so much food to keep the body warm. However, the amount of food should not be greatly reduced because at all seasons, whether weather is warm or cold, about three-fourths of all the food eaten is used by the body for its various needs—heat and energy. In fact, if you do hard work in the warm weather or engage in strenuous outdoor play, you may actually need more food than in cold weather, that is, if you are indoors most of the time in cold weather.

I believe it would be worth while for all of us to follow, in a general way, the warm weather diet suggestions of Dr. Jean Bogert in her book 'Nutrition and Physical Fitness.'

1. Make scanty use of meats, fatty foods, rich desserts and foods which require much cooking; reduce the total amount of food a little.

2. Make liberal use of fruit, vegetables, eggs and milk.

3. Make liberal use of cool foods and drinks, crisp foods, and such foods as are easily digested and prepared, such as jellies, salads, cream or cottage cheeses, cold meats, simple egg dishes, and frozen desserts.

The thought then is to cut down by about 10 per cent on the total amount of food during the warm weather and to eat more fruits and vegetables.

Stamps In The News

Chancellor Hitler, who is fond of making surprise moves, raised philatelic eyebrows recently by permitting his picture to appear on a second German stamp within a month.

Never until this last stamp was released on April 28 has he allowed a likeness of himself to appear on any but the annual birthday stamps. This stamp appeared on the day he made his retort to President Roosevelt, eight days after his most recent birthday.

The stamp — showing a grim, calm Hitler gazing heavenward—is dark brown in the 6 pfg. plus 19 pfg. value. The extra 19 pfg. is supposed to go into his "national culture" fund.

Across the Atlantic

FOUR DAYS BEFORE the Pan-American Airways Company began its Trans-Atlantic mail and passenger service on May 20th, the Post Office Department issued a new blue 30-cent airmail stamp for the occasion.

The stamp is similar in design to the five-cent airmail stamp issued in 1928—but with two significant changes. First, the word Trans-Atlantic appears over the winged globe. And near the bottom curlicues have been replaced by scenes showing ships at sea. Perforation is the same, 11.

The flying ships carrying the mail will make their first eastbound stop at the Azores, 2,300 miles from New York. Other stops will be made at Lisbon, Portugal, and Marseille, France. Round trips will be made twice a week and on every fifth trip passengers can be carried.

Japan's Scenery

JAPANESE POSTAL authorities have promised nine series of stamps depicting the scenic beauty of spots in the empire's government reservations. The second series of four stamps has just arrived.

A brown two-sen issue shows a distant view of the volcano Diasen. The green four-sen number shows the lava plateau Dan-no-ura as seen from a nearby bay. Japan's temple, Abuto Kannon, is shown rising from the water in a red 10-sen stamp. And the celebrated and beautiful Tomo-no-ura Bay is shown on the 20-sen stamp.

The stamps, printed by rotogravure, come in a booklet containing a miniature sheet of the four stamps with explanations in Japanese, French and English.

Tower Is Jinx

Rochester (AP)—Workmen will be glad when they finish demolition of a local (Todd) company's "jinx" water tower. George W. Stanley, one of the workmen dismantling the tower, suffered severe bruises when a piece of steel smashed into a girder on which he was strapped. During the construction of the tower one workman was killed, and in 1931, two workers were asphyxiated inside the tower while painting it.

Know Your Law

By CARROLL E. MEALEY
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

(Editor's Note: Below are presented some questions and answers on the subject of the Vehicle and Traffic Law and rules of the road. Readers are invited to submit questions to Information Service, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Albany, N. Y.)

Q.—Who requires a chauffeur's license?

A.—The law defines a chauffeur as one who is employed for the principal purpose of operating a motor vehicle or who drives a motor vehicle while in use as a public or common carrier of persons or property.

Q.—Due to the absence of the regular chauffeur, the employer requests one of his employes holding an operator's license to drive one of his trucks. The employe was hired as a laborer and was not required to drive a vehicle. He will not be compensated for driving the motor vehicle, as he will receive only his regular salary as a laborer. Is it permissible for him to drive the motor vehicle for his employer or must the employer secure a licensed chauffeur?

A.—Under such circumstances an employe holding an operator's license may, temporarily, drive the truck, unless it is a vehicle used as a public or common carrier of persons or property.

Q.—What is the proper way to make a right turn?

Q.—How should a left turn be made?

A.—The law requires that the approach to the turning point be made to the right of and next to the center of the roadway and, unless directed otherwise by a peace officer or sign, the vehicle shall pass to the right of the center of the intersection before the turn is made. However, if one-way traffic is prescribed, the turn shall be made from the left lane of traffic. In case of any turn, of course, proper hand signals should be given by operators of vehicles not using mechanical directional signals.

Movement Afoot to Bring About Change in Rules of Labor Board, Thereby Avoiding Amendments to the Law

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 31 — A definite movement is afoot to endeavor to placate opposition from employers and various trade unions to the rules of the board and avoiding any amendments to the law itself.

This strategy is calculated to defeat any substantial remedies for the weaknesses in the present law and to get the defenders of the statute over the severe hump of criticism which has been piling up in recent months.

The issue involved, however, is fundamental. If Congress, having delegated excessively broad powers to the labor board, is afraid to assume responsibility for its unwarranted delegation of power and to write into the law the specific changes needed, then the labor board becomes the truly legislative body. And on no subject has there been as much legislation written by a group outside of the Congress itself than by the labor board.

The legislation is in the form of regulations and decisions, and constitutes a voluminous body of rules of conduct, possibly the most far-reaching ever attempted under a democratic form of government. The most intimate relations of business conduct, the opportunities for simple intercourse between management and worker, and the free interplay of communication in writing or by conservation are now subject to the censorship of a government board of three persons responsible to nobody except occasionally the courts when some employer is willing to spend the time and money needed to get a corrective applied.

The labor board rulings and decisions will compare favorably with any set of laws adopted anywhere. There is a logic and consistency of purpose, indeed a clarity of expression in them which is unexcelled. This does not mean they are good decisions or meritorious precedents but that they represent the maximum power that can be derived from a vaguely worded statute. Instead of specifying practices which are illegal, the Congress gives a three-man board the right to decide what is an "unfair labor practice." This is language so broad as to permit of the kind of decisions handed down by the board.

The aggrieved parties—the employers—have been entrapped into believing that the board is at fault, that the board is biased, and that a mere change in the personnel will change the administration of the law. This is like asking the supreme court justices be changed in order that decisions favorable to the administration in power may be obtained. If it were conceded that the board is biased, then a change in personnel might mean only a different kind of bias, depending upon which groups could bring about the change.

What the labor board itself would like is no changes in the law and if, in order to prevent Congress from making amendments, it is necessary to change a few rules, as a sop to the opposition, the strategists on the administration side are all too eager to do it so that Congress will adjourn and leave the act to be administered as heretofore.

The question before Congress is whether it will continue to let the labor board write the laws or whether it will specify the area within which the board shall function. Failure to mark out the area is what is causing the friction today.

There are some employers who do not like the Wagner Law and who do not care what is done about changes in the rules of the board. These are the people who hope for the complete repeal of the act as soon as popular reaction grows strong enough to bring that about. Already the Wagner Law is being compared to the Eighteenth Amendment, in that the defenders are unwilling to budge an inch to meet abuses, and ultimately the reaction is expected to be so powerful as to sweep the whole reform out of the statute books.

The Wagner Law has in it a great objective—the protection of the rights of labor to organize and to choose without interference its collective bargaining agents. So did prohibition have a marvelous objective—to do away with drunkenness. But in the end prohibition was defeated and a far from satisfactory substitute—state regulation—was imposed because the abusers of prohibition itself—racketeering and gangsterism—became more obnoxious as a social evil than the original defect sought to be cured.

Today friction between employers and employes is growing. The Wagner law permits rulings by the labor board which build walls instead of bridges between workers and management. Consequently, all sorts of abuses are growing up and production is being curtailed because of labor disputes. The objective—better working conditions—can easily be defeated if friction continues.

What is needed is a series of amendments written at this session by a courageous congress specifying what are and what are not illegal acts of employers and employes in the use of economic power, so that economic coercion may be reduced to the minimum on both sides and encouragement given to human and commonsense methods of intercourse between employers and employes.

What is also needed is the substantial enlargement of the federal mediation and conciliation services so that misunderstandings often caused by threats of prosecution made by labor organizers or by other intimidation processes can be removed through the simple frank explanation of opposing viewpoints presented by skilled mediators who know how to bring about an atmosphere in which reconciliation is possible.

Board to Amend Rules

Washington, May 30 — Announcement by Chairman Madden of the National Labor Relations Board that the tribunal would soon amend its rules, so as to permit employers to petition for the holding of elections, will really make very little difference in the existing status because the board will still remain the judge of whether the petition shall be granted and at what time.

So long as discretion lies with the board, the vexing problem of when elections shall be held will remain unsettled, because the pressure from labor groups will be exerted constantly upon the board to postpone an election if the union organizers have not the assurance of the requisite majority.

The simple expedient of a fixed day for all elections, or at least fixing four days a year, one at the beginning of each quarter, removes all possibility of manipulation by either employes or employers and makes the whole question a matter of democratic procedure. In the customary elections for public office, the people would resent it if told that elections had to be postponed because one of the major parties was not ready and wanted to prolong the campaign. Yet the Wagner Act process is constantly being compared to political democracy and the idea of collective bargaining by choosing agents for the majority is being heralded as the essence of economic democracy.

By fixing a definite day when both sides must be ready, or by stating that elections can be held only at the beginning of each quarter, the rival groups in the labor world will have notice served on them that they must be ready on a given day. It is difficult to understand why the time for the holding of the elections is a matter of such moment to labor unions if employers are really obeying the law about non-interference. It only can be of moment if two rival organizations are struggling for mastery, and in such a case the employer needs protection so as not to be victimized by the organizing efforts of either union.

The principle of letting the labor board do the legislating by changing its rules is a dangerous one, if conceded by congress. It means that a board can change its rules overnight and there can be no stability. The things which have caused widespread discontent in the labor world are not matters on which the labor board itself rules, but points which grow out of the broad discretionary power vested by congress in a three-man board.

The theory that congress should not delegate power without prescribing the standards of conduct was one that a unanimous Supreme Court laid down in the famous NRA case. If in the instance of employe elections, congress were to prescribe certain standards of conduct for collective bargaining elections and left it to the labor board to see that its instructions were carried out, this would be a proper exercise of legislative power.

But the whole trend here has been for congress to abandon its legislative function and surrender to the control of a three-man or five-man board or commission the custody of the civil liberties of the citizens. In Germany and Italy the same thing happens, but the only difference is that no parliament exists there which dares to revoke the power once granted to the administrative bodies. In America congress is still responsible and could, if it chose, remove from bureaucratic control any discretionary power over the freedom of contract or the freedom of intercourse between employers and employes.

If the mere promise of a change of rules by the labor board is all that is needed to placate the opposition, then the nature of the defects in the Wagner law has not really been fully understood either by congress or the groups outside of Washington. It would be surprising, indeed, if a few minor changes in the rules will satisfy those who feel that the law is fundamentally wrong in delegating so much discretionary power to a three-man board. Enough experience has been accumulated to indicate that the Wagner law needs amendment so as to prevent the board itself from being used capriciously by labor groups. Not long ago trumped up charges were filed against a company, the labor board looked into it after the proceedings had gone along a considerable way and the board threw the case out, but not until after it had cost the employer in question time and money. There was no recompense to the employer. The board merely shrugged its shoulders and in effect said, "excuse it, please."

The labor board, being human, will make mistakes, but the filing of capricious charges is something that goes on as a form of extortion or blackmail in labor controversies. If the employer were to use a threat of economic coercion, he would be punished. But if an employe union threatens to trump up charges against the employer before the labor board, it can do so and go scot free. Such inequitable situations cannot be sured by a change in the rules, but by direct amendment of the law to require the payment of court costs and all other expenses by the unsuccessful litigant whenever unfair labor practice charges, said to have occurred before recognition was extended, are patently developed as a means of coercion.

Church Is Idle

Utica (AP)—All that remains of the First Baptist Church of Deerfield, Inc., is the church building and the cemetery, which occupies one acre along Herkimer road. The church is 128 years old; members say regular services have not been held in it for nearly 50 years. A pilgrimage is being planned for this summer to save the church so the cemetery plots in which revolutionary war heroes rest may be preserved intact.

House Roof Is Leaky So Kentuckian Moves to Cave

DAWSON SPRINGS, KY. — Because his house roof leaked, James Dawson Fox, 78, moved out all his belongings and set up his home in a cave near here.

The cave he chose in this hilly, sandstone country, which is filled with various-sized caverns, was one that is 40 feet long, 20 feet deep and has a 16-foot ceiling.

He set up his stove, his bed, his lamp and other belongings and was comfortable until it rained. Then he decided he'd have to board up the one open side of the cave. That cut off light but kept the cave dark and warm.

For running water, Fox utilizes a cold, bubbling spring less than 20 feet away from his door. For a bathtub he plunges into the Tradewater river.

Three Drowned On Memorial Day

also hit William Robinson who was already in the water. Once he came to the surface and then sank from view. The lads became alarmed when he failed to reappear and within two or three minutes began to dive in search of their missing companion.

Cleon and William Robinson located the body and pulled the unconscious form from the water and placed him on the diving platform where Melvin Robinson began first aid work. Others summoned help from the management of the lake and the sheriff's office was called. Deputy Sheriffs Brown and Vredenburg went to the lake and also called Dr. E. F. Sibley and the Central Hudson Emergency crew.

Heidecamp had been under the water some four or five minutes when he was brought out. It was necessary for the rescue crews to row out to the diving platform in order to begin operations with the inhalator equipment.

Suffers Concussion

As soon as their efforts had revived the lad sufficiently to permit his removal he was placed in a boat and taken to shore and to the hospital in the W. N. Conner ambulance which had been summoned. It was not until Tuesday that he recovered consciousness. The family physician was summoned and took charge of the case. Dr. Crowley said that the lad had apparently suffered a concussion as he struck some portion of the platform when he attempted to dive off. It was not until 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon that he gained consciousness.

Heidecamp was a member of the high school swimming team and a strong swimmer. He had but recently completed tests for his own life saving certificate and was to have taken final tests this week.

Drowns at Stone Ridge

The Styles lad was drowned about 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Accompanied by Robert Elmendorf of Stone Ridge they located an old rowboat at the mill pond and launched it. It was dried out from having stood out of water and began to take on water as they paddled out on the pond. Others on shore saw the lads start out and after getting some distance the boat filled. The Elmendorf boy escaped but Styles either fell or jumped into the water according to statements made to Deputy Sheriff Winnie who went to the scene. Just what happened was not definitely known, as the other lad left the scene immediately, according to Sheriff Molyneaux. Dr. Shea of Stone Ridge also was summoned.

Attempts were made to rescue the lad by several people, including the lad's father, and word was sent to Kingston for grappling equipment and the Central Hudson emergency truck. Meanwhile a gate was opened in an effort to drain the pond but the water had dropped but a short distance when the grappling hooks brought the body to the surface. Because of the fact that there was but one poor boat available, grappling was confined to the Central Hudson men.

Young Styles was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Styles of Cottekill. His father operates a trucking business. Besides his parents the lad is survived by one brother, Wesley John, his grandparents and several uncles and aunts.

Disappears in Hole

William O'Malley, 23, of 41-07 Twenty-eighth street, Astoria, L. I., was employed as a shipping clerk at the John Wanamaker store in New York. With three friends, William Dwyer, Florence Walker and Elizabeth McInnis, all of Astoria, they had come to Ulster county for the Memorial Day holiday.

Stopping at the John Walker place with friends they went to the Rondout creek near the Port Ben bridge and all four went wading. Miss Walker was the only one who could swim. Unfamiliar with the creek they had waded out from shore when O'Malley disappeared in a deep hole. Unable to reach their companion, state police at Ellenville were summoned and guards from the Napanoch Institution also went to the rescue. Troopers Oberhaunich and Seymour of Ellenville grappled for over two and a half hours before the body was recovered. The hole in which the lad disappeared was some 12 or 15 feet deep. The body was taken in charge by Coroner Humiston, who prepared the body for return to Astoria.

Dies at High Falls

The third victim was Faithful Samuel, an employe at the Father Divine Garage at High Falls. With Peter Kingston he went to the Rondout creek after work about 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night. Kingston left after a time and Faithful Samuel, about 23 years old, said he would remain for a time. He was said to be a poor swimmer. Later Kingston was notified that his companion had not returned and on investigation at the creek the body was found in shallow water where he had been swimming. Samuel had no known relatives. He had been at High Falls about six months. The point where he was drowned is about 400 feet above the bridge. Coroner Humiston took charge of the body and notified Father Divine's headquarters.

Sheriff Molyneaux also was notified of the accident and made an investigation.

All three drownings were pronounced as "accidental" by Coroner Howard B. Humiston of Kerhonkson.

This is "cricket"—and baseball! In baseball one swings the bat horizontally, in cricket vertically; in baseball one drops the bat when running, in cricket one carries it; in baseball the ball comes on the fly, in cricket it hits the ground before reaching the batter; in baseball the ball is pitched with bent elbow, in cricket it is bowled with a stiff elbow; in baseball the players keep up a steady line of "chatter," in cricket the players are expected to keep reasonably quiet.

U. S. Builds Up Forest Reserve

Tree Planting in 1938 Tops 140,000,000; Michigan Leads Country.

WASHINGTON.—The national forest service made long strides last year toward building up a forest reserve by planting more than 140,000,000 trees.

The service supervised the planting of 154,268 acres of deforested land in 31 states at an average cost of $10 an acre. It estimated that timber produced by the trees would be worth $7,000,000.

The largest number of trees in any state was 44,885,000 planted in Michigan. More than 1,000,000 trees each were planted in Wisconsin, Mississippi, Louisiana, Minnesota, Texas, Washington, Alabama, Colorado, Illinois, Arkansas, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Indiana.

Pine Trees Most Popular.

The service reported that 28 different tree species were planted. Five members of the extensive pine family—red, jack, white, longleaf and slash—represented 88 per cent of all trees planted.

Most of the young trees set out in the national forests were grown in the 28 forest service nurseries. Approximately 20 tons of coniferous tree seed and five tons of hardwood seed were used to produce the young trees.

Extension of the reforestation program, the service said, was made possible by the Civilian Conservation corps. Planting crews were made up entirely of CCC enrollees, unemployed local residents and relief labor.

Most extensive planting operations were reported in the Gulf and Lake states, where adequate natural reproduction has failed to follow the heavy cutting and repeated fires.

Michigan Forest Foremost.

The Manistee national forest on the Lake Michigan shore of the Lower Peninsula led the 74 national forests where planting was done last year with 17,984 acres. Three other national forests reporting more than 10,000 acres planted were the De Soto in southern Mississippi, the Nicolet in northern Wisconsin, and the Upper Michigan national forest.

In Michigan the service planted 41,022 acres in longleaf and slash pine; Wisconsin, 23,042 acres of red and jack pine; Mississippi, 20,260 acres of longleaf and slash pine; Louisiana, 14,022 acres of longleaf and slash pine.

Other states included Texas, 9,852 acres in longleaf and slash pine; Minnesota, 9,030 acres in red and jack pine; Washington, 7,432 acres in Douglas fir; Idaho, 3,836 acres in ponderosa and western white pine; Colorado, 3,805 acres in ponderosa pine, and Alabama, 3,089 acres in longleaf and slash pine.

Great Pageant Will Be Staged at Kenilworth

LONDON. — Kenilworth castle, which played a large role in the lives of the early kings of England and which was later used as a romantic setting for Sir Walter Scott's novels, will review its history this summer in a great pageant. The red sandstone walls of the castle are to be used as a background for the performers, who will represent many of the chief personages of old England.

"Edward Longshanks" will attempt to storm the castle, "Queen Elizabeth" will enter the arena through the king's gate, as she did in 1575, and Shakespeare's Falstaff will show his method of raising troops for the king's army. The nine episodes of the pageant will be concluded by a scene in which the ghost of Sir Walter Scott revisits the castle and reviews the glories of its past.

Research Is Undertaken to Improve Wood Stoves

NORTHFIELD, VT.—More efficient use for wood for heating and other household purposes is expected to result from studies now being made at Norwich university bureau of industrial research.

Director Douglas E. Howes says that by using the principle of slow combustion the wood is distilled into gas and let into a chamber to be burned under the most favorable conditions possible.

He says that stoves based on this principle are now in use in Germany, Sweden and Switzerland, but that their design is not adaptable to American households.

The combustion efficiency of these stoves, Howes adds, ranges from 75 to 90 per cent against 55 per cent and much lower in ordinary stoves.

'Cinderella Town' Changes Its Name

SEAFORD, DEL.—This little southern Delaware community was dubbed the "Cinderella Town" when it first was learned that a $7,000,000 duPont company plant would be built here. But —with the anticipated boom revolving around construction of the plant—residents of neighboring communities called Seaford "The Million Dollar Town," "The Magic City," and "The Hot Spot of the Peninsula."

Both Parties Agree Townsend Bill Doomed in House

Strategy of Sending Bill Back to Committee Is Possible to Prevent Any Commitments

Washington, May 31 (AP)—The Townsend bill to pay old age pensions up to $200 a month reached the House floor today after years of intensive nationwide campaigning and political controversy.

But no amount of debate, both Democrats and Republicans agreed, will keep the House from defeating it when the roll finally is called tomorrow.

Representative Boland of Pennsylvania, the Democratic whip, estimated there would be not more than 50 Democratic and 75 Republican votes for the bill.

Rep. Hendricks (D.-Fla.), author of the measure, said he had requests for speech-making time from 30 proponents. Each side was allotted two hours for presenting its case.

Two Chances for Upset

Only two chances remained for upsetting the Democratic leadership's carefully laid plan to kill the bill by a resounding majority. Some Republicans were understood to be fighting parliamentary procedure which would prevent any change in the measure on the House floor. If they should succeed—and Democratic leaders predicted they would not—the bill might be so modified as to win some supporters.

Then, when all debate is finished, a motion will be in order tomorrow to send the bill back to the ways and means committee for further consideration. This strategy, some sources declared, was calculated to appeal to members who might not wish to go on record for or against the measure.

The bill would provide:

Pensions up to $200 a month for persons 60 years old and over who are not gainfully employed or in prison. Some statisticians have estimated it probably would pay about $50 a month at the start.

A graduated "gross revenue" or transactions tax, ranging from one-half of one per cent on producing, manufacturing, wholesaling and jobbing businesses up to two per cent on "other business," including retailing.

Beneficiaries would have to spend their pensions within the first five days of the next month.

Body of Unidentified Man Found at Loch Sheldrake

Tuesday the body of an unidentified man with seven stab wounds and five bullet wounds in his chest and abdomen was recovered from the waters of Loch Sheldrake when it rose to the surface about ten feet from the north shore.

Dr. Harry Jacobs of Hurleyville who examined the body stated it had apparently been in the water since last fall, and had risen to the surface when sashweights fastened to the arms and legs had fallen from decayed cords. Four sashweights were still attached to one wrist when the body was recovered.

The only marks by which investigators hoped to establish the man's identity were labels on the clothing and cleaner's marks.

To Honor Governor

Canton (AP)—The memory of New York's governor, Silas Wright, is to be perpetuated by means of an oil portrait through the efforts of Williston Manley, editor of the St. Lawrence Plaindealer and State Insurance Superintendent Louis H. Pink. Pink, a St. Lawrence graduate, discovered last summer there was no picture of the 16th governor hanging with portraits of other state executives in the reception room opening into Albany's executive chambers. He launched a fund drive, with Manley's aid, and a portrait will be painted from photos of Wright, once known as "The Cato of America."

Court to Convene Monday Afternoon

County Judge Frederick G. Traver will open the June trial term of county court Monday, June 5, at 2 o'clock when civil business will be taken up. The first week will be devoted to civil matters and it is likely that the civil work may extend into the second week of the term as it has been announced that the negligence action brought by Peter J. Schreiber of Connelly agains The Callanan Road Improvement Company, Inc., will again be tried. The case was tried at the last term of county court and resulted in a disagreement of the jury.

Mr. Schreiber seeks to recover for damages to his house at Connelly which he claims was damaged through the explosion of heavy blasts at the Callanan quarry at Mingo Hollow.

Criminal matters will be taken up at the conclusion of the civil cases.

There are 59 civil cases on the June calendar.

ments to farmers and flood control, account for sizable chunks of the increase. A $20,000,000 boost was charged up against the forthcoming decennial census, which must be taken in 1940.

Five of the appropriation bills have been signed by the President. The others are pending before the Senate or joint Senate-House Committees.

Although the House held all but two of the measures below the budget estimates, the Senate increased the totals on several, notably when it added $338,000,000 for parity payments to farmers and disposal of surplus commodities. This appropriation has not yet received final congressional approval.

The House exceeded budget estimates in voting funds for flood control and river and harbor improvements. It added $50,000,000 to the War Department (non-military functions) appropriation bill.

A Senate appropriations subcommittee, however, has eliminated the $500,000,000 fund, and a House bloc may try to allocate some of the new relief money for that purpose.

Miss Mary P. Garrison, the organist, has selected Handel's "Largo" for the prelude and Mendelssohn's "March of the Priests" for the postlude.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

The Characters

Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress.

Yesterday: Geoff is sulky when Jocelyn praises Tally for having landed a job in a lawyer's office. Later, Tally is fired.

Chapter 27

Broken Engagement

"I'M SORRY, Tally," Jocelyn said sincerely, meeting his bewildered eyes. "If I can find out anything for you, I will. I've known George Lawson since I was a child. His daughter, Edith, is one of my closest friends. I think I'll drive into town right now."

"Don't mix in anything on my account," he said stiffly. "I probably wouldn't like being cooped up in a cubbyhole all day, anyhow. I like being a farmer."

Jocelyn flashed a smile at Gramp. "While I'm gone, Gramp, will you please tell this grandson of yours the story of Bluebeard's wives? And how their woman's curiosity lost them their heads?"

In her own room she changed swiftly into a dark tailored suit; pinned back her hair and set a rakish black felt hat over it; picked up her bag and car keys and hurried out to the garage. Women not only were curious, she thought, they were also intuitive, and she did not need much intuition to guess the identity of the person responsible for Tally's disappointment.

"Mr. Lawson," she began, perching on a corner of his desk and holding his glance firmly, "I want the truth about this Talbot Mack affair. Just why did you hire him and then fire him?"

George Lawson, an elderly man, dignified and kindly, met her eyes with twinkling indulgence. "Business reasons, Jocelyn. Strictly business. Our bookkeeper's report discouraged us so."

"Please—" she implored. "Don't put me off with courtroom suavity, Mr. Lawson. Perhaps I should tell you. You handle all of Geoffrey Kensing's affairs, don't you? He is a very wealthy man and a very influential one. The fees he pays you amount to considerable money. You feel that you cannot afford to lose so valuable a client. I understand that. But, Geoffrey Kensing, for reasons of his own, does not wish you to employ young Mack. He issues an ultimatum. Either you dispense with Talbot's services or lose his business. I am right, am I not, Mr. Lawson?"

His eyes dropped to the brief before him. His fingers rustled the pages nervously. "A lawyer, Jocelyn, must keep his client's affairs strictly in confidence."

"But it is true," she declard.

"A woman's intuition has always been an enigma to me," he reflected. "Strangely enough, it is nearly always correct."

"Thank you," Jocelyn reached over and squeezed his hand. "Just you wait till I finish with Geoff! He'll wish he had remembered a piece of famous advice: 'Please, God, help me to keep my nose out of other people's business'!"

"Don't be rash, Jocelyn," urged Mr. Lawson alarmed at the vindictiveness in her voice. "Edith tells me you and Geoffrey are going to be married the first of the month."

"You can just tell Edith for me that I'm never going to marry Geoffrey! Never!"

By the time she reached the street she was trembling with indignation. She backed her car out of its parking space, rasped the gears, and roared recklessly out of town toward the Dunes Country Club. Geoff, she remembered,was playing polo this afternoon. It was only one o'clock and the game would not have started yet.

'Head Over Heels'

COMING to a halt about fifty feet from the entrance to the men's locker rooms, she leaned on the deep-throated horn of her car until Geoff, recognizing its peculiar tone, came running out, his polo helmet in one hand.

"I want to talk to you," Geoffrey," she said with ominous steadiness. "Get in and close the door."

"What is it, honey?" he asked uneasily.

"This." She pulled the engagement ring from her finger and tossed it into his up-turned helmet. "I will not marry you. Ever. You're mean and jealous and thoroughly contemptible! No . . . don't say anything. I found out what you did to Tally and it's unforgiveable, Geoff! He's had a hard, frustrated life. This was his first opportunity to use his ability; to make something of himself; and you, because of pettiness, spoiled it!"

Geoff, put on the defensive, admitted: "All right, I did it. But it's as much your fault as mine. You told me for months that you wanted to get the whole damned family away from Seacliff; away from California. You couldn't stand them. Farmers. Peasants. Squatters. You resented them. So did I . . . because of you. Then you fall head over heels in love with your farmer boy-friend and I see what's happened. I know he can't make you happy, that it's merely propinquity, infatuation for his good looks that's deluded you. So I decided to put a stick in his wheel. Lyn, the only reason he ever tried to practice law was because of you. He knew he wasn't good enough for you and he figured his name lettered in gilt on an office door would bring him up to your level. Of course he wants you."

"Are you quite through, Geoff? If you are, you may trot along to your silly polo ponies!"

He opened the door and stepped out. "When you regain your senses, Jocelyn, please phone me."

"I will not," she promised herself shoving the gear in low and turning the car around. "I'm going straight home and tell Tally I love him. I'm going to tell him I've been a fool and a horrible little snob and I'm sorry for everything and to please forgive me and . . . and just love me if he can . . ."

As she ran into the house Thorn called to her from the library. "Come here, Lyn," he said. "I just found out where young Mack raised the money for the taxes.

"Well, tell me," she urged, impatient to go to Tally.

"I went down to the city hall and talked to the county assessor. Talbot paid the taxes with a check signed by Nola Cranston!"

"I . . . I don't believe it!"

Thorn shrugged. Why should he lie? And why should Nola lend money to Tally? I thought I was mistaken about them . . . that it was only friendship . . . but Mrs. Mack told me a little while ago that Nola wrote them she is coming to Santa Barbara in a few days and is anxious to see Tally."

Jocelyn experienced a humbling let-down of spirit. There was a hollow ache in her throat. No wonder Tally had kept away from her; been aloof. He loved Nola. He had been patiently waiting for her return from Hawaii. It was for Nola, not for her, that he had wanted to make something of himself, wanted to practice law.

A mocking laugh twisted her lips. How naive she had been. How unforgivably and egotistically stupid. Because he had kissed her she had thought he loved her. A . . . a kiss meant nothing to him. She should have known that.

'Emotional Hangover'

THORN took hold of her hands; felt their stiff coldness. "Lyn, are you ill? You look so strange."

"It's nothing I can't get over," she assured him dully.

Old Mack was lunching with Jocelyn in the sunny upstairs sitting room on the Russell's side of the house. His crutches lay beside the deep cushioned chair she had arranged for him and his stiff old legs in their shiny black trousers were propped up on a gold-tapestried ottoman. When Humphreys had finished serving them and departed, Mack regarded Jocelyn with snapping black eyes.

"So you had a fight with Kensing," he commented. "It was him that jinxed up Tally's lawing job, wasn't it? He must o' figured if Tally got to be somethin' he might put up a scrap for you, eh?"

Jocelyn nodded, toying with her salad, having no appetite for even the most delectable food. Her entire manner had changed since yesterday; since she had learned of Nola's coming. She was quiet; subdued; helpless.

"Well, can't blame him too much, Josie," Gramp said between mouthfuls of cheese soufflé. "He was actin' accordin' to his lights. You're a mighty purty gal, honey, with plenty o' high spirits. 'Course he never figured you'd find out. Tally's pretty broke up about it but there ain't no need o' tellin' him what we know."

"I know he is," she agreed, an undertone of harshness in her voice. "Gramp, you know a lot of things about people, but did you know that Tally wanted to practice law and make something of himself because of Nola Cranston? He loves her, Gramp—and—and I guess she—she loves him. She's coming back."

"Tosh and nonsense!" he grunted. "She don't mean nothin' to him."

"Yes, she does. You just wait and see."

"Betcha it ain't so. Say, Josie, you ain't feelin' bad 'cause you broke off with Kensing, are you?"

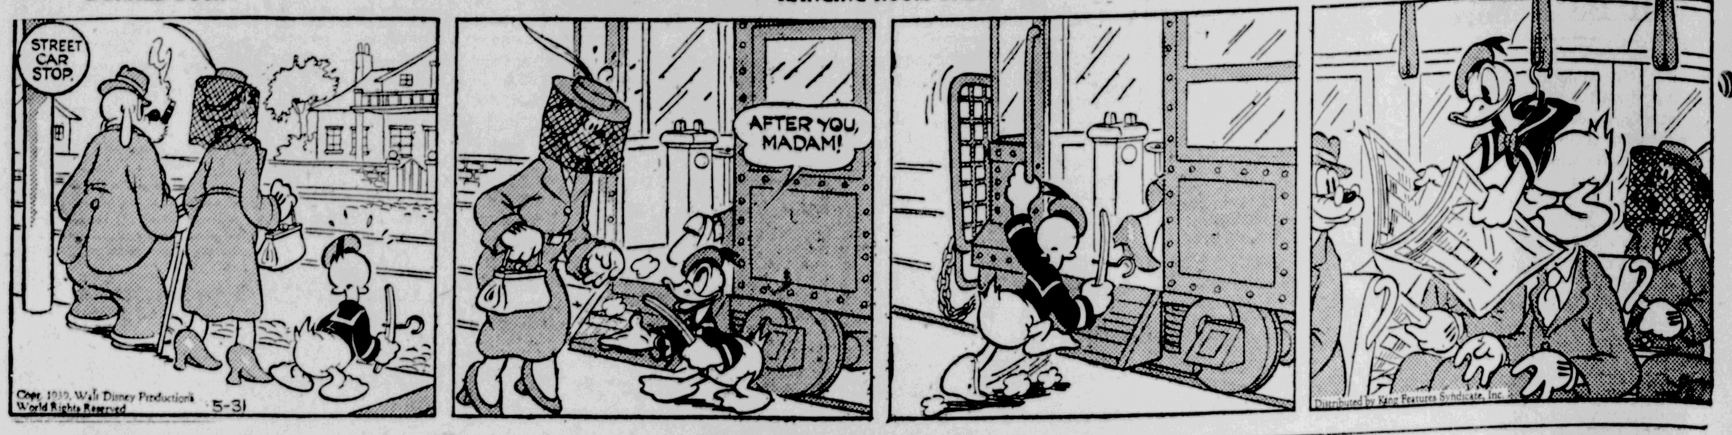

"No," she denied vehemently. "I'm glad I found out how petty and contemptible he is before I married him. But now . . . I don't know what to do. I—feel so lost. I—I guess I'm having an emotional hangover. As you say, Gramp, I've got to have time to get my bearings. I'll be all—" She broke off as the door burst open and Thorn swayed into the room. His face was ashen; his eyes were distended with shock.

When he saw old Mack his expression changed to one of scowling rage. "You're responsible!" he accused, shaking a forefinger at the old man. "You got me into this and ruined me! You did it on purpose!"

Continued tomorrow.

Mistress—You know, I suspect that my husband has a love affair with his stenographer.

Maid—I don't believe it. You're only saying it to make me jealous.

The woman who is as pretty as a peach is the one who can upset the apple cart.

Small Boy—What is college bred, daddy?

Daddy (with a son in college)—They make college bread, by boy, from the flower of youth and the dough of old age.

REWARDS—Happiness is the inevitable reward of duties well done, of big obstacles overcome, of some worth-while service done another. It can come in no other way. Others cannot give it to us, for happiness is the fruit of our own efforts. It is heaven's greatest reward for a task well done.

Wife (to husband inquiring what she thought of his speech)—You didn't manage to make the most of your opportunities.

Husband—What opportunities?

Wife—Why, all the opportunities you had of sitting down.

Teddy—You don't know the difference between geography and biography.

Tommy—I do too. Geography is about maps, and biography is about chaps.

Jane—If a sailor was hurt and went into business, why would he have to be a retailer?

Joe—Because he wouldn't be a whole sailor!

Any chance, good or bad, is sure to be disturbing to someone.

The man at the theatre was annoyed by the conversation in the row behind.

Man—Excuse me, but we can't hear a word.

Talkative One—Oh, and is it any business of yours what I'm telling my wife?

Willie—What have you got to blow about after winning only sixth place in the soap box derby?

Jimmy—Well, my prize was a toy whistle.

Which is the worse, the briber or the bribed? Is the man who tempts and pays a greater menace to decency than the man who takes a bribe to betray a trust? Of course no man has to take a bribe, but unless offered a bribe he stands four square.

A lot of the world's work goes undone because someone doesn't feel like doing it. But if we'd all wait until we felt like doing it we are positive very little would ever be accomplished. It isn't feeling like it that does things, it's that something that overcomes the "I don't feel like doing it."

ANTI-NOISE ORDINANCE

The City of Kingston has an anti-noise ordinance which should be enforced. "Canned music wagons", which travel over the streets of the city and violate the law, should receive immediate attention from the police. Taxpayers expect the police to enforce all the laws.

Monday a "ballyhoo blaster" emitting loud and raucously was permitted to disturb and distress citizens of the city and the holiday visitors in our midst. Police authorities declared that they could do nothing to stop the nuisance until a complaint was filed by a resident. It would seem to us after perusal of the local law that the anti-noise ordinance is sufficiently clear and lucid to warrant action by the police without the necessity of a citizen filing complaint. When citizens are jolted to jitters from a nuisance they look to the police for protection. The police should give this protection when in their judgment the anti-noise ordinance is violated. If the police cannot act under the local law then the law should be changed.

It is true that the racket is cut out when in the hospital zone, but all residents, who are ill or convalescing, are not in the hospitals.

Section One of the local ordinance prohibiting unnecessary noises and noises detrimental to health follows:

Section 1. All ringing of gongs and bells and all blowing of horns and whistles, and all noises which are detrimental to public health, or that disturb the public peace and quiet, or that annoys, endangers or injures, the comfort, repose or health of any considerable number of persons, or unnecessary noises, except the giving of any signals required by law, are hereby prohibited in the City of Kingston. All signals required by law of any steam or electric railroad company, or in connection with the operation of locomotives, motor vehicles, or other vehicles, or otherwise, shall be given in such a way as shall be reasonable and proper and only to the extent that the law absolutely requires and so as to disturb the public peace and quiet no more than shall be necessary to comply with such law.

AUTOCRACIES HEDGING

The autocratic governments are getting scared by the defensive net the threatened democracies are drawing around them. So instead of the insolent threats to which Hitler and Mussolini have accustomed the world, they begin to hedge.

Virginio Gayda, clever Roman spokesman for the Nazi-Fascist "axis," says accusingly: "Will the two imperial democracies (Britain and France), which have taken the initiative, launch themselves blindly toward an extreme conflict, or will they withdraw from this array of opposing forces inspiration for a new policy, more cautious but more generous?"

He adds that Italy and Germany will not take the initiative in starting war, but they insist "that Europe be made over, and that as a starter it be definitely freed from a system of political inequalities which create true dictatorship international affairs by the imperial democracies, over the so-called dictatorships of the axis."

All this elegant language seems to mean that the two militarist powers which started the whole trouble, and were going to grab what they wanted wherever they found it, are now piping down and merely asking a square deal for themselves.

They should have it, if they will play cricket according to the rules, and not resort to medieval brigandage for what they want.

Germany and Italy both have grievances and legitimate claims, which are more likely to be satisfied by peaceful means than by war. If they stop blustering and threatening, world sentiment can probably be counted on to make the "imperial democracies" give them a new deal as regards colonies and materials. But they will have to convince the world of their good faith by practical deeds.

FORGOTTEN ROMEO

All the world is said to love a lover, and nearly all the visitors to Verona, Italy, send fan mail to the "true and faithful Juliet."

Shakespeare might be surprised to learn that there are in that city a house and a tomb said to be the home and the grave of that hapless bride. Outside the tomb there is a small letter box reserved for "mail for Juliet." The tradition is that visitors who drop a message in the box will be lucky in love.

The strange thing about all this is that Romeo is ignored. No guides try to show the house in which he lived. There is no mail box for letters to him. Why should there be? He has no tradition and no fan mail.

We seem to gather from proceedings over in Canada, that the King and Queen are easier to please in matters of dress and manners than our own style-dictators.

Won't it be terrible if the nations get all armed up, regardless of expenses, and then discover that they have nothing to fight about?

Take 'em as fact or fiction—and people can and do take 'em both ways—the revelations of the Dies committee are certainly thrilling.

Wars may be won not only on the playgrounds of Eton but in the cornerstone-layings of Canada.

Another evidence of the bitter racial struggle in Europe—German beer is no longer sold in Polish restaurants.

No matter how strong a dictator's will may be, there always comes a time when the people say "I won't."

Now that vehicular traffic is pretty well regulated, how about getting pedestrians to keep to the right on the sidewalk?

Seems as if they just can't get a good-neighbor policy started in Europe.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

COLD TO WARM WEATHER DIET

One of the benefits to children and adults of northern communities due to quick transportation —truck and train — is the fresh vegetables and fruits obtainable at reasonable prices before the home vegetables and fruits are available.

In past years, during the cold weather "heavy" foods were eaten to keep the body warm, and as fresh fruits and vegetables were scarce and expensive, by the time spring arrived youngsters were thought to be pretty well "stuffed up" by this heavy food and a generous dose of sulphur and molasses was given. This clearing out of the bowel and blood likely did more good than harm, at that.

Even in cold weather, now, fresh fruit and vegetables can be obtained at reasonable prices and also canned fruit and vegetables which have practically all their food, mineral and vitamin value available.

However, with the majority of us the total amount of food should be cut down as the warm weather approaches because there is no longer the need of so much food to keep the body warm. However, the amount of food should not be greatly reduced because at all seasons, whether weather is warm or cold, about three-fourths of all the food eaten is used by the body for its various needs—heat and energy. In fact, if you do hard work in the warm weather or engage in strenuous outdoor play, you may actually need more food than in cold weather, that is, if you are indoors most of the time in cold weather.

I believe it would be worth while for all of us to follow, in a general way, the warm weather diet suggestions of Dr. Jean Bogert in her book 'Nutrition and Physical Fitness.'

1. Make scanty use of meats, fatty foods, rich desserts and foods which require much cooking; reduce the total amount of food a little.

2. Make liberal use of fruit, vegetables, eggs and milk.

3. Make liberal use of cool foods and drinks, crisp foods, and such foods as are easily digested and prepared, such as jellies, salads, cream or cottage cheeses, cold meats, simple egg dishes, and frozen desserts.

The thought then is to cut down by about 10 per cent on the total amount of food during the warm weather and to eat more fruits and vegetables.

Stamps In The News

Chancellor Hitler, who is fond of making surprise moves, raised philatelic eyebrows recently by permitting his picture to appear on a second German stamp within a month.

Never until this last stamp was released on April 28 has he allowed a likeness of himself to appear on any but the annual birthday stamps. This stamp appeared on the day he made his retort to President Roosevelt, eight days after his most recent birthday.

The stamp — showing a grim, calm Hitler gazing heavenward—is dark brown in the 6 pfg. plus 19 pfg. value. The extra 19 pfg. is supposed to go into his "national culture" fund.

Across the Atlantic

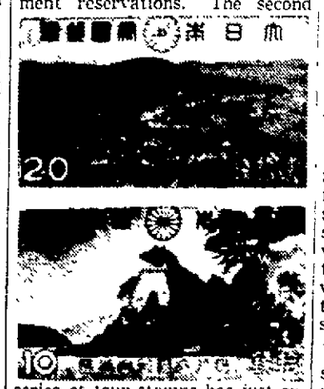

FOUR DAYS BEFORE the Pan-American Airways Company began its Trans-Atlantic mail and passenger service on May 20th, the Post Office Department issued a new blue 30-cent airmail stamp for the occasion.

The stamp is similar in design to the five-cent airmail stamp issued in 1928—but with two significant changes. First, the word Trans-Atlantic appears over the winged globe. And near the bottom curlicues have been replaced by scenes showing ships at sea. Perforation is the same, 11.

The flying ships carrying the mail will make their first eastbound stop at the Azores, 2,300 miles from New York. Other stops will be made at Lisbon, Portugal, and Marseille, France. Round trips will be made twice a week and on every fifth trip passengers can be carried.

Japan's Scenery

JAPANESE POSTAL authorities have promised nine series of stamps depicting the scenic beauty of spots in the empire's government reservations. The second Japan's temple, Abuto Kannon, is shown rising from the water in a red 10-sen stamp. And the celebrated and beautiful Tomo-no-ura Bay is shown on the 20-sen stamp.

The stamps, printed by rotogravure, come in a booklet containing a miniature sheet of the four stamps with explanations in Japanese, French and English.

Tower Is Jinx

Rochester (AP)—Workmen will be glad when they finish demolition of a local (Todd) company's "jinx" water tower. George W. Stanley, one of the workmen dismantling the tower, suffered severe bruises when a piece of steel smashed into a girder on which he was strapped. During the construction of the tower one workman was killed, and in 1931, two workers were asphyxiated inside the tower while painting it.

Know Your Law

By CARROLL E. MEALEY
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

(Editor's Note: Below are presented some questions and answers on the subject of the Vehicle and Traffic Law and rules of the road. Readers are invited to submit questions to Information Service, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Albany, N. Y.)

Q.—Who requires a chauffeur's license?

A.—The law defines a chauffeur as one who is employed for the principal purpose of operating a motor vehicle or who drives a motor vehicle while in use as a public or common carrier of persons or property.

Q.—Due to the absence of the regular chauffeur, the employer requests one of his employes holding an operator's license to drive one of his trucks. The employe was hired as a laborer and was not required to drive a vehicle. He will not be compensated for driving the motor vehicle, as he will receive only his regular salary as a laborer. Is it permissible for him to drive the motor vehicle for his employer or must the employer secure a licensed chauffeur?

A.—Under such circumstances an employe holding an operator's license may, temporarily, drive the truck, unless it is a vehicle used as a public or common carrier of persons or property.

Q.—What is the proper way to make a right turn?

Q.—How should a left turn be made?

A.—The law requires that the approach to the turning point be made to the right of and next to the center of the roadway and, unless directed otherwise by a peace officer or sign, the vehicle shall pass to the right of the center of the intersection before the turn is made. However, if one-way traffic is prescribed, the turn shall be made from the left lane of traffic. In case of any turn, of course, proper hand signals should be given by operators of vehicles not using mechanical directional signals.

Movement Afoot to Bring About Change in Rules of Labor Board, Thereby Avoiding Amendments to the Law

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 31—A definite movement is afoot to endeavor to placate opposition from employers and various trade unions to the rules of the board and avoiding any amendments to the law itself.

This strategy is calculated to defeat any substantial remedies for the weaknesses in the present law and to get the defenders of the statute over the severe hump of criticism which has been piling up in recent months.

The issue involved, however, is fundamental. If Congress, having delegated excessively broad powers to the labor board, is afraid to assume responsibility for its unwarranted delegation of power and to write into the law the specific changes needed, then the labor board becomes the truly legislative body. And on no subject has there been as much legislation written by a group outside of the Congress itself than by the labor board.

The legislation is in the form of regulations and decisions, and constitutes a voluminous body of rules of conduct, possibly the most far-reaching ever attempted under a democratic form of government. The most intimate relations of business conduct, the opportunities for simple intercourse between management and worker, and the free interplay of communication in writing or by conservation are now subject to the censorship of a government board of three persons responsible to nobody except occasionally the courts when some employer is willing to spend the time and money needed to get a corrective applied.

The labor board rulings and decisions will compare favorably with any set of laws adopted anywhere. There is a logic and consistency of purpose, indeed a clarity of expression in them which is unexcelled. This does not mean they are good decisions or meritorious precedents but that they represent the maximum power that can be derived from a vaguely worded statute. Instead of specifying practices which are illegal, the Congress gives a three-man board the right to decide what is an "unfair labor practice." This is language so broad as to permit of the kind of decisions handed down by the board.

The aggrieved parties—the employers—have been entrapped into believing that the board is at fault, that the board is biased, and that a mere change in the personnel will change the administration of the law. This is like asking the supreme court justices be changed in order that decisions favorable to the administration in power may be obtained. If it were conceded that the board is biased, then a change in personnel might mean only a different kind of bias, depending upon which groups could bring about the change.

What the labor board itself would like is no changes in the law and if, in order to prevent Congress from making amendments, it is necessary to change a few rules, as a sop to the opposition, the strategists on the administration side are all too eager to do it so that Congress will adjourn and leave the act to be administered as heretofore.

The question before Congress is whether it will continue to let the labor board write the laws or whether it will specify the area within which the board shall function. Failure to mark out the area is what is causing the friction today.

There are some employers who do not like the Wagner Law and who do not care what is done about changes in the rules of the board. These are the people who hope for the complete repeal of the act as soon as popular reaction grows strong enough to bring that about. Already the Wagner Law is being compared to the Eighteenth Amendment, in that the defenders are unwilling to budge an inch to meet abuses, and ultimately the reaction is expected to be so powerful as to sweep the whole reform out of the statute books.

The Wagner Law has in it a great objective—the protection of the rights of labor to organize and to choose without interference its collective bargaining agents. So did prohibition have a marvelous objective—to do away with drunkenness. But in the end prohibition was defeated and a far from satisfactory substitute—state regulation—was imposed because the abusers of prohibition itself—racketeering and gangsterism—became more obnoxious as a social evil than the original defect sought to be cured.

Today friction between employers and employes is growing. The Wagner law permits rulings by the labor board which build walls instead of bridges between workers and management. Consequently, all sorts of abuses are growing up and production is being curtailed because of labor disputes. The objective—better working conditions—can easily be defeated if friction continues.

What is needed is a series of amendments written at this session by a courageous congress specifying what are and what are not illegal acts of employers and employes in the use of economic power, so that economic coercion may be reduced to the minimum on both sides and encouragement given to human and commonsense methods of intercourse between employers and employes.

What is also needed is the substantial enlargement of the federal mediation and conciliation services so that misunderstandings often caused by threats of prosecution made by labor organizers or by other intimidation processes can be removed through the simple frank explanation of opposing viewpoints presented by skilled mediators who know how to bring about an atmosphere in which reconciliation is possible.

Board to Amend Rules

Washington, May 30 — Announcement by Chairman Madden of the National Labor Relations Board that the tribunal would soon amend its rules, so as to permit employers to petition for the holding of elections, will really make very little difference in the existing status because the board will still remain the judge, of whether the petition shall be granted and at what time.

So long as discretion lies with the board, the vexing problem of when elections shall be held will remain unsettled, because the pressure from labor groups will be exerted constantly upon the board to postpone an election if the union organizers have not the assurance of the requisite majority.

The simple expedient of a fixed day for all elections, or at least fixing four days a year, one at the beginning of each quarter, removes all possibility of manipulation by either employes or employers and makes the whole question a matter of democratic procedure. In the customary elections for public office, the people would resent it if told that elections had to be postponed because one of the major parties was not ready and wanted to prolong the campaign. Yet the Wagner Act process is constantly being compared to political democracy and the idea of collective bargaining by choosing agents for the majority is being heralded as the essence of economic democracy.

By fixing a definite day when both sides must be ready, or by stating that elections can be held only at the beginning of each quarter, the rival groups in the labor world will have notice served on them that they must be ready on a given day. It is difficult to understand why the time for the holding of the elections is a matter of such moment to labor unions if employers are really obeying the law about non-interference. It only can be of moment if two rival organizations are struggling for mastery, and in such a case the employer needs protection so as not to be victimized by the organizing efforts of either union.

The principle of letting the labor board do the legislating by changing its rules is a dangerous one, if conceded by congress. It means that a board can change its rules overnight and there can be no stability. The things which have caused widespread discontent in the labor world are not matters on which the labor board itself rules, but points which grow out of the broad discretionary power vested by congress in a three-man board.

The theory that congress should not delegate power without prescribing the standards of conduct was one that a unanimous Supreme Court laid down in the famous NRA case. If in the instance of employe elections, congress were to prescribe certain standards of conduct for collective bargaining elections and left it to the labor board to see that its instructions were carried out, this would be a proper exercise of legislative power.

But the whole trend here has been for congress to abandon its legislative function and surrender to the control of a three-man or five-man board or commission the custody of the civil liberties of the citizens. In Germany and Italy the same thing happens, but the only difference is that no parliament exists there which dares to revoke the power once granted to the administrative bodies. In America congress is still responsible and could, if it chose, remove from bureaucratic control any discretionary power over the freedom of contract or the freedom of intercourse between employers and employes.

If the mere promise of a change of rules by the labor board is all that is needed to placate the opposition, then the nature of the defects in the Wagner law has not really been fully understood either by congress or the groups outside of Washington. It would be surprising, indeed, if a few minor changes in the rules will satisfy those who feel that the law is fundamentally wrong in delegating so much discretionary power to a three-man board. Enough experience has been accumulated to indicate that the Wagner law needs amendment so as to prevent the board itself from being used capriciously by labor groups. Not long ago trumped up charges were filed against a company, the labor board looked into it after the proceedings had gone along a considerable way and the board threw the case out, but not until after it had cost the employer in question time and money. There was no recompense to the employer. The board merely shrugged its shoulders and in effect said, "excuse it, please."

The labor board, being human, will make mistakes, but the filing of capricious charges is something that goes on as a form of extortion or blackmail in labor controversies. If the employer were to use a threat of economic coercion, he would be punished. But if an employe union threatens to trump up charges against the employer before the labor board, it can do so and go scot free. Such inequitable situations cannot be sured by a change in the rules, but by direct amendment of the law to require the payment of court costs and all other expenses by the unsuccessful litigant whenever unfair labor practice charges, said to have occurred before recognition was extended, are patently developed as a means of coercion.

Church Is Idle

Utica (AP)—All that remains of the First Baptist Church of Deerfield, Inc., is the church building and the cemetery, which occupies one acre along Herkimer road. The church is 128 years old; members say regular services have not been held in it for nearly 50 years. A pilgrimage is being planned for this summer to save the church so the cemetery plots in which revolutionary war heroes rest may be preserved intact.

Roberts' car collided with the burning and wrecked car (above) driven by Bob Swanson, of Los Angles. Swanson and Chet Miller of Los Angeles, whose car also crashed into the wreckage, were hurt. Roberts lived in Van Nuys, Cal.

'WELL HEELED' in the land of the Nazis may mean that milady is wearing shoes with extra-thick cork heels and soles, the better to peer over crowds, my dear! These were noted at a "fashion race" at Hoppegarten track near Berlin.

SUCCESSFUL CAMPAIGN

With 1940 presidential hopefuls taking soundings in Washington and elsewhere, former President Herbert Hoover went fishing at Kennebago Lake, Me.,—for trout. Here he displays one of the ten —the legal limit—he caught. "A perfect afternoon," said Hoover. His guide is at the oars.

PUZZLE

This is a good closeup of Thomas H. Smith, 24-year-old California pilot, whose failure to be reported within the expected time limit while on a trans-Atlantic flight puzzled his friends and air authorities. Flying the smallest plane ever to attempt the Atlantic crossing, he was unofficially "reported" over various points in the British Isles, but definite word of his whereabouts was lacking after the 42 hours of flying time his gas supply allowed.

Opening of the Great Lakes season and a revival in Buffalo industries was credited with the improvement.

Army Air Corps Awaits Signal

Wright Field Nerve Center For Expansion of Plane Service.

DAYTON.—When congress gives the signal, the experimental branch of the United States army air corps at Wright field will be ready with contracts for $50,000,000 worth of airplanes.

Final enactment of the war department's appropriation bill and the secretary of war's signature on these contracts will inaugurate an air corps expansion program that contemplates 3,000 new fighting planes in two years.

Wright field has been the birthplace of all modernization of the army air corps in the last dozen years, but never have the flying line, the laboratories and testing departments been the scene of such high-speed activity as in the early months of 1939.

A staff of 1,600 officers and civilian employees has been working long hours for weeks in preparation for building America's greatest and deadliest sky fleet. Several hundred more employees, from engineers down to shop mechanics, probably will be added when the expansion program gets under way.

Establishment Is Enlarged.

The main laboratory building, with 148,920 square feet of floor space, is being enlarged and rearranged. A new wind tunnel, the largest in the country, which will permit testing a 20-foot plane at windspeed of 400 to 500 miles an hour, is planned.

Brake testing facilities have been installed recently. New equipment for testing engines and propellers is expected to be added.

Most important tests at the moment are those being made on three attack bombers capable of carrying half a ton of bombs and heavy machine gun armament. With an estimated top speed of 400 miles an hour, these ships, designed by private manufacturers, are expected to be equal or superior to any attack planes ever built. These can be used for high-altitude bombing or for attack ground troops.

Interesting but secret tests are being made on new pursuit planes. Tiny single-seaters, they are expected to go well over 400 miles an hour.

According to Brig. Gen. George H. Brett, chief of the air corps material division, these pursuit and attack bomber planes will be the backbone of the enlarged new air force.

Giant Bombers in Vanguard.

Additional strength, General Brett said, will come from the four-engined "flying fortress" bombers. These sky giants will be the answer to the problem given the air corps by President Roosevelt, of defending the Western hemisphere against foreign invasion.

Formerly Wright field officers had the viewpoint on development that constant advancements in aviation would make mass production of any certain types undesirable. The corps did not want obsolete planes on its hands.

European developments, however, created a demand for a large air force. The policy has been changed to one of standardization on the best of present-day military planes to provide an adequate air defense.

Much of the new personnel coming to Wright field, it is understood, will be attached to a new production department to put manufacture of fighting planes on a mass production basis. Officers to head this department have been assigned here but details of its function are secret.

The emphasis on mass production does not mean that engineering development will lag. Research work will continue on an even greater scale so that swifter, better aircraft will be ready for production when the current best ships are outmoded.

Papago Indians Traced To Extinct Sonora Tribe

TUCSON, ARIZ.—Upon their return from a trip into Sonora, archeologists of the University of Arizona reported they had apparently traced the beginning of the Arizona Papago Indians to a now extinct tribe in Sonora, called the Soba Indians.

Evidence found at La Playa and Las Trincheras convinced them, Dr. Emil W. Haury, head of the anthropology department of the university said, that the Papagos may have migrated into Arizona from that part of Mexico.

A prehistoric village, opened by erosion at La Playa, revealed the Soba Indians were chiefly food gatherers, a characteristic of the Papago tribe.

Lassoing of Irish Brides Runs Into Legal Obstacle

DUBLIN.—Progress has flattened the old Irish custom of boys roping the newly married bride as she left the church and taking her away before the bridegroom could kiss her. In County Kerry, about the only place where it is still practiced, Bridget Guerin and her nephew, Richard Guerin, were arrested recently at Dooncaha charged with obstructing a wedding party by placing a rope in front of them, the rope having damaged a wedding car. The judge said that, as automobiles had replaced jaunting cars, the custom was dangerous and must be abandoned.

The Girl Scout program includes homemaking, community life, nature, the out-of-doors, international friendship, dramatics and literature, arts and crafts, music and dancing, health and safety, sports and games. Each girl, in accordance with her own development, has opportunities to explore these fields. And they do at Camp Wendy, which is located on the beautiful Borden Estate near Wallkill. The site is owned by the Ulster County Girl Scouts and is scattered over 50 acres of a combination of lake, open and wooded land, divided into six units according to the ages of the girls. The divisions are Brownies, Indians, Tinkerbell, Pirates, Romany and Explorers.

House Roof Is Leaky So Kentuckian Moves to Cave

DAWSON SPRINGS, KY. — Because his house roof leaked, James Dawson Fox, 78, moved out all his belongings and set up his home in a cave near here.

The cave he chose in this hilly, sandstone country, which is filled with various-sized caverns, was one that is 40 feet long, 20 feet deep and has a 16-foot ceiling.

He set up his stove, his bed, his lamp and other belongings and was comfortable until it rained. Then he decided he'd have to board up the one open side of the cave. That cut off light but kept the cave dark and warm.

For running water, Fox utilizes a cold, bubbling spring less than 20 feet away from his door. For a bathtub he plunges into the Tradewater river.

also hit William Robinson who was already in the water. Once he came to the surface and then sank from view. The lads became alarmed when he failed to reappear and within two or three minutes began to dive in search of their missing companion.

Cleon and William Robinson located the body and pulled the unconscious form from the water and placed him on the diving platform where Melvin Robinson began first aid work. Others summoned help from the management of the lake and the sheriff's office was called. Deputy Sheriffs Brown and Vredenburg went to the lake and also called Dr. E F. Sibley and the Central Hudson Emergency crew.

Heidecamp had been under the water some four or five minutes when he was brought out. It was necessary for the rescue crews to row out to the diving platform in order to begin operations with the inhalator equipment.

Suffers Concussion

As soon as their efforts had revived the lad sufficiently to permit his removal he was placed in a boat and taken to shore and to the hospital in the W. N. Conner ambulance which had been summoned It was not until Tuesday that he recovered consciousness The family physician was summoned and took charge of the case. Dr. Crowley said that the lad had apparently suffered a concussion as he struck some portion of the platform when he attempted to dive off. It was not until 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon that he gained consciousness.

Heidecamp was a member of the high school swimming team and a strong swimmer. He had but recently completed tests for his own life saving certificate and was to have taken final tests this week.

Drowns at Stone Ridge

The Styles lad was drowned about 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Accompanied by Robert Elmendorf of Stone Ridge they located an old rowboat at the mill pond and launched it It was dried out from having stood out of water and began to take on water as they paddled out on the pond Others on shore saw the lads start out and after getting some distance the boat filled. The Elmendorf boy escaped but Styles either fell or jumped into the water according to statements made to Deputy Sheriff Winnie who went to the scene. Just what happened was not definitely known, as the other lad left the scene immediately, according to Sheriff Molyneaux Dr. Shea of Stone Ridge also was summoned

Attempts were made to rescue the lad by several people, including the lad's father, and word was sent to Kingston for grappling equipment and the Central Hudson emergency truck. Meanwhile a gate was opened in an effort to drain the pond but the water had dropped but a short distance when the grappling hooks brought the body to the surface. Because of the fact that there was but one poor boat available, grappling was confined to the Central Hudson men

Young Styles was the son of Mr. and Mrs James C. Styles of Cottekill. His father operates a trucking business Besides his parents the lad is survived by one brother, Wesley John, his grandparents and several uncles and aunts.

Disappears in Hole

William O'Malley, 23, of 41-07 Twenty-eighth street, Astoria, L. I., was employed as a shipping clerk at the John Wanamaker store in New York. With three friends, William Dwyer, Florence Walker and Elizabeth McInnis, all of Astoria, they had come to Ulster county for the Memorial Day holiday.

Stopping at the John Walker place with friends they went to the Rondout creek near the Port Ben bridge and all four went wading. Miss Walker was the only one who could swim. Unfamiliar with the creek they had waded out from shore when O'Malley disappeared in a deep hole. Unable to reach their companion, state police at Ellenville were summoned and guards from the Napanoch Institution also went to the rescue. Troopers Oberhaunich and Seymour of Ellenville grappled for over two and a half hours before the body was recovered. The hole in which the lad disappeared was some 12 or 15 feet deep. The body was taken in charge by Coroner Humiston, who prepared the body for return to Astoria.

Dies at High Falls

The third victim was Faithful Samuel, an employe at the Father Divine Garage at High Falls. With Peter Kingston he went to the Rondout creek after work about 10.30 o'clock Tuesday night. Kingston left after a time and Faithful Samuel, about 23 years old, said he would remain for a time. He was said to be a poor swimmer. Later Kingston was notified that his companion had not returned and on investigation at the creek the body was found in shallow water where he had been swimming. Samuel had no known relatives. He had been at High Falls about six months. The point where he was drowned is about 400 feet above the bridge Coroner Humiston took charge of the body and notified Father Divine's headquarters.

Sheriff Molyneaux also was notified of the accident and made an investigation

All three drownings were pronounced as "accidental" by Coroner Howard B. Humiston of Kerhonkson.

Cricket vs. Baseball

This is "cricket"—and baseball! In baseball one swings the bat horizontally, in cricket vertically; in baseball one drops the bat when running, in cricket one carries it; in baseball the ball comes on the fly, in cricket it hits the ground before reaching the batter; in baseball the ball is pitched with bent elbow, in cricket it is bowled with a stiff elbow; in baseball the players keep up a steady line of "chatter," in cricket the players are expected to keep reasonably quiet.

Colorful Water Lilies Thrive in Simple Pool

Build and Plant Now

What could be lovelier than this gem of a lily pool, sparkling coolly in your garden?

If you start the gorgeous tropical lily now—you'll have fragrant, colorful blooms in about a month. And this handsome exotic needs only a modest amount of space.

The pool itself is simple to make. For pigmy lilies a tub you can sink into the ground will do. But for the larger lilies, best to have a concrete pool. You can easily make one from directions. The trick is to mix ingredients thoroughly—and work fast.

Tropical lilies are happiest in shallow water, so plant them in a box or bushel basket raised on stones as the diagram shows. Other types of lilies you plant in the soil at the bottom of the pool.

As for the border, use picturesque flagstones, plant stonecrop between them, add a clump of ornamental fountain grass. In the background—a tiny rock garden with pinks, bluebells and columbine.

Find complete directions in our 32-page booklet for making and planting all types of lily pools. Tells what to plant around your pool, how to make many delightful kinds of little rock gardens.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of HOW TO MAKE ROCK GARDENS AND LILY POOLS to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME OF booklet.

No Accidents Mar Holiday in City

down Broadway to Delaware avenue, where it disbanded.

The parade yesterday was the first that had been arranged by the United Veterans' Association, Inc., and Captain Charles N. Behrens was grand marshal, assisted by Captain Ernest Steuding and Lieutenant Fred L. Coombs.

As the parade swung down Broadway past the high school it was reviewed by Mayor C. J. Heiselman and officials of the city government. Also on the grand stand was Augustus Cole of Ulster Park, one of two surviving veterans of the Civil War in Ulster county.

The parade was one of the most colorful in years with the gay uniforms of the Port Ewen Fire Department Drum Corps, Kingston Post of the American Legion Drum Corps, the Kingston High School Band, and other musical units in the line of march.

Two new musical units made their appearance in the parade. They were the drum corps formed by members of the local National Guard in charge of Sergeant G. V. Richards and the other of Boy Scouts of Troop 12, in charge of Robert R. Soper. They were greeted with hearty applause.

The parade was headed by Mayor Heiselman, a detachment of police and firemen, the grand marshal and his staff, the National Guard Drum Corps and the National Guard units making up the first division.

The second division was made up of the massed colors, making an inspiring sight, and was followed by the Legion Drum Corps and members of Kingston Post, the Joyce-Schirick Post, Pratt Post, Sons of the American Legion, and automobiles carrying veterans and members of various organizations.

The Port Ewen Fire Department Drum Corps headed the third division and in this division marched the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Port Ewen Fire Department, and the Auxiliaries of Cordts Hose and Excelsior Hose, and Wiltwyck Chapter of the D. A. R. and automobiles carrying members of the American Red Cross.

This was one of the outstanding divisions in the parade, with one of the largest drum corps, the greatest number of members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and Boy Scouts in the line of march.

Captain Behrens, grand marshal of the parade, said today that Port Ewen deserved a vote of credit for the way it cooperated with Kingston in making the parade one of the outstanding Memorial Day Parades in years here.

Rifton Club Marches

The fourth division was composed of the 4-H Clubs of Ulster county and vicinity and the Rifton 4-H Club Drum Corps headed the division. The fifth division was made up of Boy Scouts from over 10 troops in the city and county with Scout Executive R. Gardner Burns leading them. The drum corps of Troop 12 of the First Reformed Church furnished the music for this division.

Grade schools 1, 3 and 4 made up the sixth division headed by the high school band, while the seventh and last division was made up of the Salvation Army, headed by the Army band. The Army float depicted a soldier's grave with an Army woman standing beside it.

The Community Riding Club under the direction of Sergeant John Roosa, acted as division marshals, two members riding between each division.

Many in Parks

The holiday also marked the formal opening of the city's ten parks for the summer season, and during the day several thousand people visited the parks, and enjoyed the pleasures afforded. The younger folks found that all the playground equipment had been installed, and it was in constant use throughout the day and early evening.

The largest crowds of the day were at Forsyth and Hasbrouck Parks.

'Play Day' Ends With Games Awash

Pupils of Schools 1, 3, 4, and Police Baffled by Variety of Weather

Maypoles were blown down, flowers battered with rain and lines for games washed away Monday afternoon 45 minutes before the 'Play Day' for Schools No. 1, 3 and 4 was scheduled to take place at Hasbrouck Park.

After noble efforts on the part of those in charge to revive the scene, and with members of the police force lending their aid in unwinding maypole streamers, the affair started.

The Virginia reel was first danced in the foreground with the Hudson river and hills of the park as a background. This was followed by the winding of the maypoles, two of which had blue and white streamers and the third orange and blue. All three were crowned with white flowers.

Hit pin baseball, Schlagg ball and softball games with teams made up of members from all the schools were to have followed but the rain, which was thought to have blown over had not spent its fury and came with a sudden force, ending the program.

A good-sized crowd had gathered for the program of the downtown schools and remained despite the storm to see the part of the program that was given.

Seven in Japan Attain a Yearly Income of Million

TOKYO.—Seven persons in Japan have incomes of more than a million dollars a year.

The exact income of the seven was not given in the finance department statistics, which showed that the largest tax-paying group was in the bracket earning about $400 a year.

The seven persons in the $1,000,000,000 bracket are from three families, not listed by name, but presumably the Mitsuis, Mitsubishis and Sumitomos.

Eight families are included in the 15 individuals earning between $550,000 and $1,000,000 annually.

Thirty-five families cover the 48 individuals in the bracket between $275,000 and $550,000.

The group earning between $325 and $400 a year is composed of 340,872 persons from 79,593 families.

Income taxes reach into the low incomes in Japan and a person earning $275 annually is subject to a levy of 10 per cent. There are 40,929 in this group.

MEMORIAL TO SQUALUS DEAD

Grim-faced sailors aboard the submarine Sculpin,, anchored at Portsmouth, N. H., pay tribute to dead comrades aboard the sunken sister-submarine Squalus, which lies in 240 feet of water nearby. Slow 21-gun salutes—the Navy's Memorial Day tribute—were sounded and the Sculpin's flag was half-staffed.

KEEPS GHOSTLY RENDEZVOUS

Ruth Desautel, who was to have been the bride of Sherman Shirley, one of the victims of the Squalus disaster, keeps a Memorial Day rendezvous with her dead lover at sea. Standing in a boat over the spot off the New Hampshire coast where the sub lies with the bodies of Shirley and 25 others, she bends her head in prayer and tosses a wreath into the ocean.

America Honors Its Martial Dead; Salute to Squalus

(By The Asociated Press)

America's soldier and sailor dead, from those who perished on Civil War battlefields to the 26 entombed in a sunken submarine last week, were honored on Memorial Day in ceremonies which echoed widespread appeals for peace.

In several of the addresses there were indications of the forth-coming congressional fight over neutrality proposals intended to keep the nation out of war.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), speaking at Arlington, Va., near the tomb of the Unknown Soldier which King George of England will decorate with a wreath next week, opposed American intervention in foreign affairs.

He criticized the use of "methods short of war"—a phrase uttered recently by President Roosevelt—in trying to stop aggression.

"No nation can take methods short of war unless it is prepared to carry through the war to which such measures inevitably lead," Taft said.

Senator Radcliffe (D-Md.), where one of the Civil War's bloodiest battles was fought, championed the peace efforts of Mr. Roosevelt.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.), first southerner to deliver the annual address at the battlefield at Gettysburg, Pa., said class differences had replaced old sectional hatreds.

"What will it accomplish," he asked, "to achieve sectional unity, only to be divided by economic dissension?"

Parades and grave-decorating ceremonies were held in hundreds of cities and towns.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores. 10¢ and 25¢.

Protest Meeting To Be Held Here

A "Palestine Protest Meeting," will be held tomorrow evening at Ahavath Israel on Wurts street. A prominent speaker from New York will present his views on the current struggle in the Holy Land and Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, of this city, will preside over the meeting.

Attorney Ress of New York will deliver the principal address and the three rabbis of the city will be present. Invocation will be by the Rev. William McVey, pastor of the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Church.

The meeting is one of many being held throughout the country to voice a protest against the British White Paper and to indicate the necessity of carrying on with the program already started in Palestine. Americans of all creeds have voiced their dissension on the British policy of negation on the question.

A group of prominent local citizens outside the Jewish faith is expected at the meeting.

TWO AGAINST LOVE

The Characters

Jocelyn Russell, beautiful heiress.

Tally Mack, young farmer whose family has inherited half the Russell estate. Secciff.

Yesterday: Geoff is sulky when Jocelyn praises Tally for having landed a job in a lawyer's office. Later Tally is fired.

Chapter 27

Broken Engagement

"I'M SORRY, Tally," Jocelyn said sincerely, meeting his bewildered eyes. "If I can find out anything for you, I will. I've known George Lawson since I was a child. His daughter Edith is one of my closest friends. I think I'll drive into town right now."

"Don't mix in anything on my account," he said stiffly. "I probably wouldn't like being cooped up in a cubbyhole all day, anyhow. I like being a farmer."

Jocelyn flashed a smile at Gramp. "While I'm gone, Gramp, will you please tell this grandson of yours the story of Bluebeard's wives? And how their woman's curiosity lost them their heads?"

In her own room she changed swiftly into a dark tailored suit; pinned back her hair and set a rakish black felt hat over it; picked up her bag and car keys and hurried out to the garage. Women not only were curious, she thought, they were also intuitive, and she did not need much intuition to guess the identity of the person responsible for Tally's disappointment.

"Mr. Lawson," she began, perching on a corner of his desk and holding his glance firmly, "I want the truth about this Talbot Mack affair. Just why did you hire him and then fire him?"

George Lawson, an elderly man, dignified and kindly, met her eyes with twinkling indulgence. "Business reasons, Jocelyn. Strictly business. Our bookkeeper's report discouraged us so."

"Please—" she implored. "Don't put me off with courtroom suavity, Mr. Lawson. Perhaps I should tell you. You handle all of Geoffrey Kensing's affairs, don't you? He is a very wealthy man and a very influential one. The fees he pays you amount to considerable money. You feel that you cannot afford to lose so valuable a client. I understand that. But, Geoffrey Kensing, for reasons of his own, does not wish you to employ young Mack. He issues an ultimatum. Either you dispense with Talbot's services or lose his business. I am right, am I not, Mr. Lawson?"

His eyes dropped to the brief before him. His fingers rustled the pages nervously. "A lawyer, Jocelyn, must keep his client's affairs strictly in confidence."

"But it is true," she declard.

"A woman's intuition has always been an enigma to me," he reflected. "Strangely enough, it is nearly always correct."

"Thank you," Jocelyn reached over and squeezed his hand. "Just you wait till I finish with Geoff! He'll wish he had remembered a piece of famous advice: 'Please, God, help me to keep my nose out of other people's business'!"

"Don't be rash, Jocelyn," urged Mr. Lawson alarmed at the vindictiveness in her voice. "Edith tells me you and Geoffrey are going to be married the first of the month."

"You can just tell Edith for me that I'm never going to marry Geoffrey! Never!"

By the time she reached the street she was trembling with indignation. She backed her car out of its parking space, rasped the gears, and roared recklessly out of town toward the Dunes Country Club. Geoff, she remembered, was playing polo this afternoon. It was only one o'clock and the game would not have started yet.

'Head Over Heels'

COMING to a halt about fifty feet from the entrance to the men's locker rooms, she leaned on the deep-throated horn of her car until Geoff, recognizing its peculiar tone, came running out, his polo helmet in one hand.

"I want to talk to you," Geoffrey," she said with ominous steadiness. "Get in and close the door."

"What is it, honey?" he asked uneasily.

"This." She pulled the engagement ring from her finger and tossed it into his up-turned helmet. "I will not marry you. Ever. You're mean and jealous and thoroughly contemptible! No . . . don't say anything. I found out what you did to Tally and it's unforgiveable, Geoff! He's had a hard, frustrated life. This was his first opportunity to use his ability; to make something of himself; and you, because of pettiness, spoiled it!"

Geoff, put on the defensive, admitted: "All right. I did it. But it's as much your fault as mine. You told me for months that you wanted to get the whole damned family away from Spacliff; away from California. You couldn't stand them. Farmers. Peasants. Squatters. You resented them. So did I . . . because of you. Then you fall head over heels in love with your farmer boy-friend and I see what's happened. I know he can't make you happy, that it's merely propinquity, infatuation for his good looks that's deluded you. So I decided to put a stick in his wheel. Lyn, the only reason he ever tried to practice law was because of you. He knew he wasn't good enough for you and he figured his name lettered in gilt on an office door would bring him up to your level. Of course he wants you."

"Are you quite through, Geoff? If you are, you may trot along to your silly polo ponies!"

He opened the door and stepped out. "When you regain your senses, Jocelyn, please phone me."

"I will not," she promised herself shoving the gear in low and turning the car around. "I'm going straight home and tell Tally I love him. I'm going to tell him I've been a fool and a horrible little snob and I'm sorry for everything and to please forgive me and . . . and just love me if he can . . ."

As she ran into the house Thorn called to her from the library. "Come here, Lyn," he said. "I just found out where young Mack raised the money for the taxes.

"Well, tell me," she urged, impatient to go to Tally.

"I went down to the city hall and talked to the county assessor. Talbot paid the taxes with a check signed by Nola Cranston!"

"I . . . I don't believe it!"

Thorn shrugged. Why should he lie? And why should Nola lend money to Tally? I thought I was mistaken about them . . . that it was only friendship . . . but Mrs. Mack told me a little while ago that Nola wrote them she is coming to Santa Barbara in a few days and is anxious to see Tally."

Jocelyn experienced a humbling let-down of spirit. There was a hollow ache in her throat. No wonder Tally had kept away from her; been aloof. He loved Nola. He had been patiently waiting for her return from Hawaii. It was for Nola, not for her, that he had wanted to make something of himself, wanted to practice law.

A mocking laugh twisted her lips. How naive she had been. How unforgivably and egotistically stupid. Because he had kissed her she had thought he loved her. A . . . a kiss meant nothing to him. She should have known that.

'Emotional Hangover'

THORN took hold of her hands; felt their stiff coldness. "Lyn, are you ill? You look so strange."

"It's nothing I can't get over," she assured him dully.

Old Mack was lunching with Jocelyn in the sunny upstairs sitting room on the Russell's side of the house. His crutches lay beside the deep cushioned chair she had arranged for him and his stiff old legs in their shiny black trousers were propped up on a gold-tapestried ottoman. When Humphreys had finished serving them and departed, Mack regarded Jocelyn with snapping black eyes.

"So you had a fight with Kensing," he commented. "It was him that jinxed up Tally's lawing job, wasn't it? He must o' figured if Tally got to be somethin' he might put up a scrap for you, eh?"

Jocelyn nodded, toying with her salad, having no appetite for even the most delectable food. Her entire manner had changed since yesterday; since she had learned of Nola's coming. She was quiet; subdued; helpless.

"Well, can't blame him too much, Josie," Gramp said between mouthfuls of cheese souffle. "He was actin' accordin' to his lights. You're a mighty purty gal, honey, with plenty o' high spirits. 'Course he never figured you'd find out. Tally's pretty broke up about it but there ain't no need o' tellin' him what we know."

"I know he is," she agreed, an undertone of harshness in her voice. "Gramp, you know a lot of things about people, but did you know that Tally wanted to practice law and make something of himself because of Nola Cranston? He loves her, Gramp—and—and I guess she—she loves him. She's coming back."

"Tosh and nonsense!" he grunted. "She don't mean nothin' to him."

"Yes, she does. You just wait and see."

"Betcha it ain't so. Say, Josie, you ain't feelin' bad 'cause you broke off with Kensing, are you?"

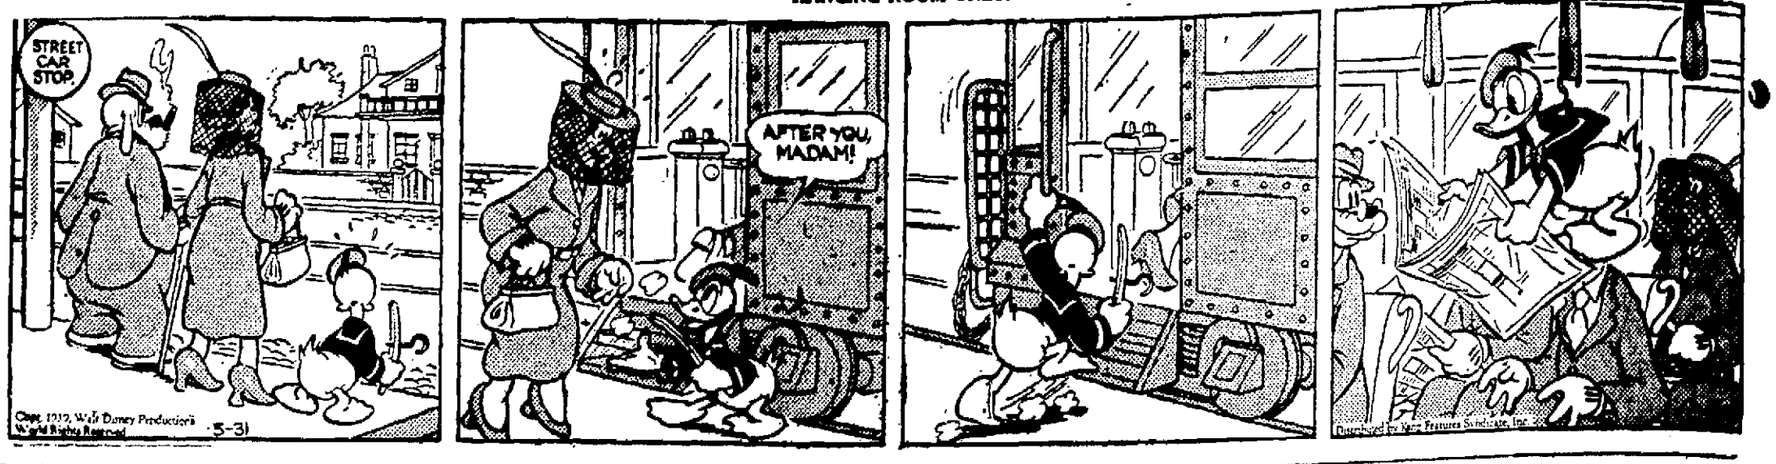

"No," she denied vehemently. "I'm glad I found out how petty and contemptible he is before I married him. But now . . . I don't know what to do. I—feel so lost. I—I guess I'm having an emotional hangover. As you say, Gramp, I've got to have time to get my bearings. I'll be all—" She broke off as the door burst open and Thorn swayed into the room. His face was ashen; his eyes were distended with shock.

When he saw old Mack his expression changed to one of scowling rage. "You're responsible!" he accused, shaking a forefinger at the old man. "You got me into this and ruined me! You did it on purpose!"

Mistress—You know, I suspect that my husband has a love affair with his stenographer.

Maid—I don't believe it. You're only saying it to make me jealous.

The woman who is as pretty as a peach is the one who can upset the apple cart.

Small Boy—What is college bred, daddy?

Daddy (with a son in college)—They make college bread, by boy, from the flower of youth and the dough of old age.

REWARDS—Happiness is the inevitable reward of duties well done, of big obstacles overcome, of some worth-while service done another. It can come in no other way. Others cannot give it to us, for happiness is the fruit of our own efforts. It is heaven's greatest reward for a task well done.

Wife (to husband inquiring what she thought of his speech)—You didn't manage to make the most of your opportunities.

Husband—What opportunities?

Wife—Why, all the opportunities you had of sitting down.

Teddy—You don't know the difference between geography and biography.

Tommy—I do too. Geography is about maps, and biography is about chaps.

Jane—If a sailor was hurt and went into business, why would he have to be a retailer?

Joe—Because he wouldn't be a whole sailor!

Any chance, good or bad, is sure to be disturbing to someone.

The man at the theatre was annoyed by the conversation in the row behind.

Man—Excuse me, but we can't hear a word.

Talkative One—Oh, and is it any business of yours what I'm telling my wife?

Willie—What have you got to blow about after winning only sixth place in the soap box derby?

Jimmy—Well, my prize was a toy whistle.

Which is the worse, the briber or the bribed? Is the man who tempts and pays a greater menace to decency than the man who takes a bribe to betray a trust? Of course no man has to take a bribe, but unless offered a bribe he stands four square.

A lot of the world's work goes undone because someone doesn't feel like doing it. But if we'd all wait until we felt like doing it we are positive very little would ever be accomplished. It isn't feeling like it that does things, it's that something that overcomes the "I don't feel like doing it."

He did the master-minding and took the blame if his plans went awry. Under him the Giants won 10 National League pennants, three World Series.

Colonials and Cohoes Divide Double Header Memorial Day

Boiceville Loses Hard One To Independents by 5 to 4, Grunies vs. Jones Tonight

Conquering a hard-fighting Boiceville nine, the Kingston Independents squeaked through to their sixth straight victory by a 5-4 margin in Monday's night City League game. Boiceville's shaky defense caused Red Lane's downfall. He throttled the Indies to seven bingles in the early innings.

Charley Bock took the hill for the Indies and was in constant trouble throughout. Rapped for eight safe slaps in his seven-inning stretch, Bock fanned six at opportune moments to chalk up a victory. The Rangers pecked away at Bock continually but stranded base-runners as Bock turned them back in the clutch.

Boiceville Rallies

Trailing 5-2, the Rangers staged a sixth inning rally. With the crowd howling for a kill, Al Naussbaum out-legged a slow bounder to Stumpf with one gone. Sickles, Boiceville's rookie catcher, slapped a single putting Naussbaum on second. Lane sliced to McLean as the runners moved up a peg. Bob Naussbaum's two-run double to center had the Independents on the run. Manager Lou Knapp went in himself for Nunn, sucked a walk and things looked black for the all-conquering. Buddy Zoller's pop fly to Lay killed the threat and the Independents chalked up victory No. 6.

Boiceville scored first on Zoller's walk and successive singles by Bush and Schneider, but the Independents' three in their half erased the Ranger's lead. Lay's long triple chased Stumpf and McLean home and Van Etten's first bingle tallied Lay with two gone. Boiceville added another in the second on Al Naussbaum's single, Stumpf's error and some Dodger baseball by Lay on McLean's attempted forceout on Bob Naussbaum's grounder. Lay failed to cover the keystone sack as Al Naussbaum tripped across.

Knight's single and bobbles by Boiceville's shaky defense presented the Indies with another single tally in the second. Van Etten smashed a drive down the right field foul line which eluded Nunn and rolled a country mile. Bing completed the circuit for his second round-tripper of the year when Nunn failed to trap the pill with a lunging dive putting the Indies ahead 5-2.

The outdoor boxing begins at Woodcliff Park, Poughkeepsie, tonight, with Abe Feldman of Schenectady meeting Charlie "Hobo" Williams of New York, in the main event on the card presenting three former amateurs who boxed at the auditorium.

The list of scraps:

Abe Feldman, Schenectady heavyweight, vs. Charlie Williams, New York, eight rounds.

Ernie Vigh, Newburgh, vs. Eddie Guerra, New York, six rounds.

Artie Weinberg, Bronx, vs. Al Luciano, New York, six rounds.

Hugo Dubaldi, Newburgh, vs. Red Van Alstyne, Ravena, four rounds.

Caesar Ferro, New York, vs. Bob Perry, Albany, four rounds.

'I Can Hit Harder'

Lou Nova

"I'm sure I'll outpoint Max Baer and I wouldn't be suprised if I laid him low after seven or eight rounds," he says. "I don't think he can take 15 rounds of my punching.

"I think I am destined to be heavyweight champion. I've been successful in everything I've ever undertaken and I'm supremely confident that I'll take Baer and then beat Joe Louis for the title."

Baer and Nova Box Tomorrow

New York, May 31 (AP)—Maxie Baer, the playboy boxer who reformed a little late, and Lou Nova, a comparative novice with a world of promise, clash in a 15-round fight at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night that might, just possibly, produce the world's next heavyweight champion.

The winner is promised a title shot in September against Joe Louis or, by some stretch of the imagination, Tony Galento, depending upon the outcome of their engagement on June 28.

Softball Notes

Federation League

Monday evening the Congregational team met their Waterloo at the hands of Port Ewen when they were able to score only eight runs while Port Ewen was running up twice that number. This leaves the Presbyterian team the only one in the Federation of Men's Clubs Softball League with a perfect score. Trinity Lutherans lost to Hurley 4 to 11 and Wurts Street Baptists won 9 to 7 from the Redeemers.

This evening the leading Presbyterians meet the Clinton Avenue team at armory diamond in an endeavor to retain their lead. Trinity M. E. meets Ulster Park at Hasbrouck and Fair Street plays Albany Avenue Baptists at Barmann Park.

Elks by 5-0

Monday night at Block Park the Elks softball team trimmed Morgans 5-0 as Don Weeks pitched one-hit ball. The Elks scored all of their runs in the first inning on four hits. Balfe, the losing pitcher, got the only hit off of Weeks. Balfe was nicked for six hits. Only one man reached first for Morgans. Weeks fanned three, Balfe 6.

Wins at Union

Union, N. J., May 31 (AP)—Bill Holland of New Rochelle, N. Y., driving a McDowell special, won the feature big car 15-mile race last night at Union Speedway in 15:19.8. Holland was 15 yards ahead of Joe Sanco of Elizabeth at the finish.

Most of Trotters From New York

Goshen, N. Y., May 31 (AP)—New York state appears to have a stranglehold on trotting honors this year with Dunbar W. Bostwick's Nibble Hanover, favorite for the Kentucky Derby's counterpart in trotting, the Hambletonian Stake, and E. Roland Harriman's Edgar Hanover, an $8,100 colt which looks like tops among the juvenile sulky-pullers.

Out of 235 horses entered in Goshen's first Grand Circuit meeting the week of July 4, more than half are owned by New York state sportsmen. And the unlucky number of 13 out of the 45 three-year-olds eligible for the Hambletonian here in August also are in the stables of Empire State owners.

Ulster Gun Club Shoot Thursday

The skeet range of the Ulster County Gun Club will be open for practice shooting Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Shooting will continue until dark.

The patronage at tomorrow's shoot will govern whether or not these shoots will be held weekly. If the turnout of gunners does not indicate enough interest then the club will revert to its plan of shooting every two weeks.

Skeet shooters in the vicinity are invited and spectators are welcome.

Indian Victor in Marathon Again

Norwich, Conn., May 31 (AP)—Elison "Tarzan" Brown, the Rhode Island Redman who has loving cups representing victories in both the Boston marathon and the A. A. U. 15-kilometer run, has established himself as one of the leading distance racers of the year.

The Narragansett Indian from Westerly who six weeks ago shattered the record in the Boston grind, turned in a similar performance yesterday when he led a field of 51 runners in the 15-kilo in 51:53, two minutes under the record established last year by Vic Drygal of New York.

SPEEDWAY RACE DRAWS 145,000 FANS

SHAW WINS AUTO CLASSIC

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

If Memorial Day doubleheaders proved nothing else, they showed that baseball deserves all the nice things said about it in its centennial year.

That's one side of the day's picture. Up at Cooperstown, N. Y., they hung a portrait of Maj. Gen. Abner Doubleday, the game's founder, in the museum alongside tributes to others of the game's outstanding personalities.

And in New York's Polo Grounds the 56,296 who saw the Giant-Dodger feud witnessed another impressive ceremony when wreaths were laid on commemorative placques for a quartet of old-time Giant heroes—the great "Muggsy" McGraw, Eddie Grant, Christy Mathewson and Ross Young.

But let's see what else they saw.

First thing, of course, is the double shutout suffered by the rugged Reds of Cincinnati, the National League pace setters, at the hands of the Chicago Cubs. A couple of well-pitched games—by the veteran Larry French and the young Vance Page—and the Redlegs were as meek as stuffed owls. That Cincinnati tragedy, by scores of 6-0 and 2-0, coupled with the Cards and the Pirates splitting their twin bill, left the Reds just two games ahead of the field.

The Cards won the first, 7-2, but couldn't stop Pittsburgh's Johnny Rizzo in the nightcap and he belted in enough runs—nine to be exact—to win three ball games. The Pirates won this one, 14-8.

Dodgers, Giants Split

The Dodgers held onto fifth place by winning the nightcap from the Giants, 3-1, after being humiliated by a 5-4 score in the first game. That, incidentally, was the biggest Polo Grounds crowd since September 13, 1936, when 62,000 saw the Giants and the Cards play.

The Bees and Phillies mauled each other around in the other National League offering, the Bees winning No. 1 by 9-7 but losing No. 2 by 5-3.

The highlight of the American League play was the 8-4 shellacking handed the Yankees by the Boston Red Sox. But the Yanks won the second, 17-9.

The Browns and Indians won the day's marathon honors, going 12 innings to a decision. It was in favor of the Indians by 3-2 and gave them a clean sweep for the day. They won the first game by 7-2.

The Athletics and Senators split even, the A's winning the first 3-1, and Washington the second, 8-4. Since Chicago won the first game from the Tigers, 6-2, and then dropped the nightcap, 8-3, all this left the clubs exactly where they were—way behind the Yanks.

Wilbur Shaw Wins Indianapolis Dash

Indianapolis, May 31 (AP)—The 27th annual 500-mile automobile race over the Indianapolis speedway brought death to one former winner and a second victory to another.

Wilbur Shaw, 37-year-old Indianapolis driver who won the 1937 race, finished first again yesterday before 145,000 spjectators to boost his prize money to $71,200 in nine races and become the leading money winner of speedway history.

Floyd Roberts, 39, Van Nuys (Calif.) airplane factory worker who won last year and had planned to quit racing after yesterday, was injured fatally in a three-car pileup on the track.

Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., three-time winner, lost out with his fourth victory almost within his grasp. His car was leading by a lap with only three two-and-a-half-mile laps to go when a tire went flat and the car spun on a turn. Later Mayer's mount stalled and he went out of the race.

Because officials slowed the cars down for a half hour while the track was cleared of wreckage, the record of 117.2 miles an hour which Roberts set in the 1938 classic was not broken. Shaw's winning speed was 115.035 miles an hour.

Hydroplane Race Won by Gatewood

Atlantic City, N. J., May 31 (AP)—Racing around Absecon Island in 36 minutes, 52 seconds, William E. Gatewood of Norfolk, Va., won the 22.6-mile Auerbach Memorial trophy race yesterday in his 225-inch hydroplane, "Miss Mantwo."

Two miles ahead of his nearest competitor when the exhaust manifold blew off, Gatewood finished three seconds ahead of Jack Thomas of Seaside.

Rosendale Loses To Grunies, 11-6

Yesterday afternoon at Kristic Field, Grunenwalds defeated the Rosendale Club, 11-6. The game was nip and tuck until the seventh inning, when the Grunies pushed over five runs to sew up the contest.

Big Joe Mahar scattered 10 hits and struck out seven. Balfe, working for Rosendale, allowed 16 hits and fanned nine.

Charlie Neff Pitches Stellar Game for Kingston—Mac Tiano Helps With Two Homers in Second

Before a good holiday crowd Fred Davi's Kingston Colonials and Cohoes hooked up in a doubleheader at the Athletic Field yesterday afternoon. After five hours of it the teams broke even. The Colonials took the opener 13 to 8 but dropped the nightcapper by 9 to 5 in 10 innings.

Charlie Neff, aided by Joe Brown, bested Joe Teso and Sheridan in the curtain call. Bud Swarthout, who relieved Orville Sweet in the second tussle, lost to Steve Hamil.

After spotting Cohoes a 3 to 1 lead with four sessions gone, the Colonials hopped on Teso and then continued to lather Norm Sheridan. Kingston pushed over two runs in the fifth to knot the count and then added seven more in the sixth. Charlie Neff opened the fatal seventh by reaching first when Fred Miggins kicked the ball around his sack on an easy bounder. Husta walked and Benjamin, who was one of the standout hitters all day, slashed an easy double play grounder to Guter who lost it. Neff romped in.

Finger was erased but Mac Tiano hoisted a fly into left where Carr misjudged it in the sun and it fell for a double, scoring Husta. DuBois was intentionally passed to fill the sacks. The strategy worked as Schatzel forced Benjamin at the platter. Joe Hoffman caught on one and singled into center accounting for Tiano and DuBois. Frankie Neff continued the slaughter with a solo to right pushing in Schatzel. This was plenty for Teso. Sheridan took the hill and was greeted by Charlie Neff's two-ply smack. The inning finally expired as Husta skied to Semerad, an ex-Union College star.

Kingston added three more in the seventh just to insure a victory. Cohoes hammered Joe Brown in the seventh, eighth and ninth for five runs. After the first inning Charlie Neff pitched air-tight ball. The batting heroes were Joe Hoffman, Carr and Haack. With three bingles, Hoffman rifled in five important markers.

Tiano Poles Two

Although Mac Tiano walloped out two disputed home runs in the finale the Colonials dropped a 9 to 5 decision in 10 innings to Steve Hamil. Orville Sweet and Bud Swarthout were equally reached for a total of 15 solid knocks. Swarthout helped to lose his own game with an error in the overtime.

Kingston watched Cohoes pile up a 4-2 lead and then lose it to the locals in the fifth and sixth when the Davimen overcame the lead and made the count 5 to 4. Mac Tiano unleashed his round trippers in the fourth and fifth frames.

Cohoes clinched the game in the tenth with Haack starting it off in good style with a single out to Tommy DuBois. Ralph Semerad, the former Union athlete, hit a bunt down the first base line where Swarthout came charging in. Bud scooped up the pill and then threw it into right field while Haack scampered all the way home. Waranda walked. Carr slashed a hit into center scoring Semerad. Buter followed with another solo pushing in Waranda. After Miggins moved them up with a sacrifice, Hoffman tossed out Lemay, but on the play, Carr scored the fourth run.

Although touched for 12 hits, Hamil hurled winning ball all the way. With men on the paths in scoring position the big boy pulled himself together and escaped unsinged. As a result of the two games Kingston still plays .500 ball with five wins and a like number of losses.

Bleak Finland Celebrates Flower Day Each Spring

It is so common to think of Finland as a bleak and barren land of the north that many visitors are greatly surprised to find Flower day, May 13, one of the most popular of Finnish holidays. It is a day when all Helsinki turns out to celebrate and the city is literally covered with thousands of geraniums, hydrangeas, fuchsias, pansies, violets and poppies. Housewives fill their windows with flower pots and hang wreathes of brightly colored blossoms over their doors, while the university students and school children hold processions and singing festivals, all marked by lavish floral decorations.

The day is historically the anniversary of the Finnish national anthem's first public performance, so that choral singing, for which the Finns are as famous as for their running, plays a big part in the celebration. The anthem is nearly a hundred years old now, and is dear to the heart of every Finn. Its words tell of the indomitable spirit of Finland in overcoming her natural poverty:

"Our land is poor, as all can tell,
For those who seek but gold."

The visitor is bound to admit that if the country has little gold in its hills it suffers from no lack of golden buttercups, marigold, and nasturtiums upon their surface. For in addition to the boatloads of cultivated cut flowers which are sold any spring or summer morning in the famous marketplace in Helsinki, the rural fields and woods are full of gay wild blossoms from May till August.

It is a curious fact that with all his love for flowers of every kind the modern Finn seldom sends any at all to a funeral. A movement has been under way for several years which provides a home for the aged from contributions made by those who, instead of buying flowers for a funeral, send their money to the foundation in charge of the project.

Whiteport Man Jailed

Louis Seagar, 49, of Whiteport, was arrested Tuesday by Anderson V. Ellsworth at Rosendale on a charge of crashing into Ellsworth's parked car in front of Vaughn's drug store and failing to stop. Ellsworth pursued the Seagar car to the Kelder place near the bridge and arrested Seagar. Deputy Sheriffs Vredenburg and Brown arraigned Seagar before Justice Baxter, who imposed a $25 fine and 25 days in jail on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and also $10 or 10 days for operating a car without a license. Seagar was brought to jail. The Ellsworth car was damaged about the fender.

Three Men Arrested

Three men were arrested by railroad police last night on a charge of trespassing on railroad property. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Humphrey Jones by Officer Thiel, the men were given five days in jail. They were George Quinlan of Freeport, L. I., Frank Healey of Dunmore, Pa., and Paul Dwyer of New York.

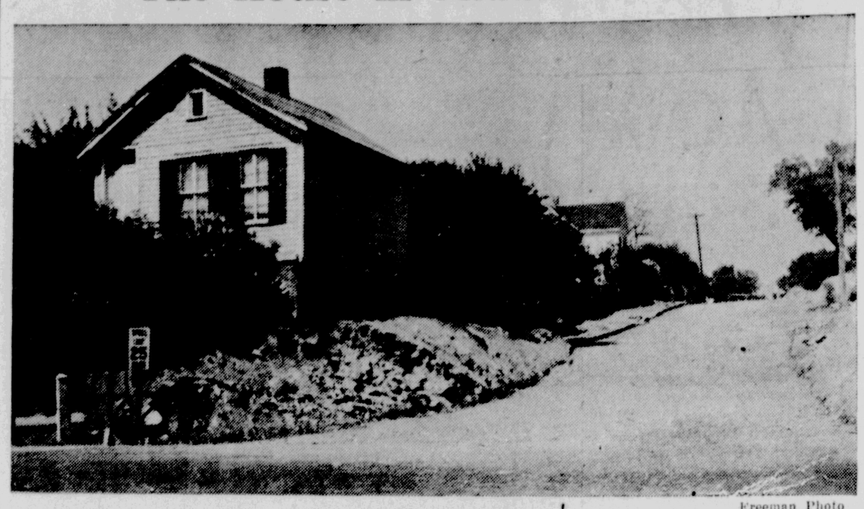

Gumerlock Arrested

Frank J. Gumerlock, 43, who said he had no home, was arrested at Ellenville by Chief Porter on a public intoxication charge Tuesday. Judge Kaiser handed out a 60-day jail sentence.

"The House in Middle of Road"

Freeman Photo

One of the problems that the Board of Public Works is wrestling with at the present time is the "house in the middle of the road" on Meade street at East Chester street. Several days ago the board made a personal inspection of the problem, but what decision was reached is not known. Mayor Heiselman, president of the board, has stated he was in favor of having the house moved back off the street. Meade street is being widened and improved as a WPA project and in order to make it a well finished job the house undoubtedly will be moved to another foundation.

Board Upholds Validity Of Minimum Wage Law

New York, May 31 (AP)—The State Board of Standards and Appeals has upheld validity of a New York Labor Department requirement of a minimum "weekly" wage to women and minors.

The department order was challenged as 'invalid and unreasonable" last September by Harry J. Hutchins, owner of the Hutchins marine laundry at Buffalo. The board said the order applies to all women and minors employed for any period in a given week.

Tale Is Turned

Amsterdam (AP)—This time, the tale is turned about: A tavern proprietor in Montgomery county complains he closes at the legal deadline of 2 a. m. but finds there's no use going to bed. An ice cream parlor next door, he says, is open most of the night and the young folk there are more boisterous than any crowd of barflies ever was.

Army Air Corps Awaits Signal

Wright Field Nerve Center For Expansion of Plane Service.

DAYTON.—When congress gives the signal, the experimental branch of the United States army air corps at Wright field will be ready with contracts for $50,000,000 worth of airplanes.

Final enactment of the war department's appropriation bill and the secretary of war's signature on these contracts will inaugurate an air corps expansion program that contemplates 3,000 new fighting planes in two years.

Wright field has been the birthplace of all modernization of the army air corps in the last dozen years, but never have the flying line, the laboratories and testing departments been the scene of such high-speed activity as in the early months of 1939.

A staff of 1,600 officers and civilian employees has been working long hours for weeks in preparation for building America's greatest and deadliest sky fleet. Several hundred more employees, from engineers down to shop mechanics, probably will be added when the expansion program gets under way.

Establishment Is Enlarged.

The main laboratory building, with 148,920 square feet of floor space, is being enlarged and rearranged. A new wind tunnel, the largest in the country, which will permit testing a 20-foot plane at windspeed of 400 to 500 miles an hour, is planned.

Brake testing facilities have been installed recently. New equipment for testing engines and propellers is expected to be added.

Most important tests at the moment are those being made on three attack bombers capable of carrying half a ton of bombs and heavy machine gun armament. With an estimated top speed of 400 miles an hour, these ships, designed by private manufacturers, are expected to be equal or superior to any attack planes ever built. These can be used for high-altitude bombing or for attack ground troops.

Interesting but secret tests are being made on new pursuit planes. Tiny single-seaters, they are expected to go well over 400 miles an hour.

According to Brig. Gen. George H. Brett, chief of the air corps material division, these pursuit and attack bomber planes will be the backbone of the enlarged new air force.

Giant Bombers in Vanguard.

Additional strength, General Brett said, will come from the four-engined "flying fortress" bombers. These sky giants will be the answer to the problem given the air corps by President Roosevelt, of defending the Western hemisphere against foreign invasion.

Formerly Wright field officers had the viewpoint on development that constant advancements in aviation would make mass production of any certain types undesirable. The corps did not want obsolete planes on its hands.

European developments, however, created a demand for a large air force. The policy has been changed to one of standardization on the best of present-day military planes to provide an adequate air defense.

Much of the new personnel coming to Wright field, it is understood, will be attached to a new production department to put manufacture of fighting planes on a mass production basis. Officers to head this department have been assigned here but details of its function are secret.

The emphasis on mass production does not mean that engineering development will lag. Research work will continue on an even greater scale so that swifter, better aircraft will be ready for production when the current best ships are outmoded.

Papago Indians Traced To Extinct Sonora Tribe

TUCSON, ARIZ.—Upon their return from a trip into Sonora, archeologists of the University of Arizona reported they had apparently traced the beginning of the Arizona Papago Indians to a now extinct tribe in Sonora, called the Soba Indians.

Evidence found at La Playa and Las Trincheras convinced them, Dr. Emil W. Haury, head of the anthropology department of the university said, that the Papagos may have migrated into Arizona from that part of Mexico.

A prehistoric village, opened by erosion at La Playa, revealed the Soba Indians were chiefly food gatherers, a characteristic of the Papago tribe.

Lassoing of Irish Brides Runs Into Legal Obstacle

DUBLIN.—Progress has flattened the old Irish custom of boys roping the newly married bride as she left the church and taking her away before the bridegroom could kiss her. In County Kerry, about the only place where it is still practiced, Bridget Guerin and her nephew, Richard Guerin, were arrested recently at Dooncaha charged with obstructing a wedding party by placing a rope in front of them, the rope having damaged a wedding car. The judge said that, as automobiles had replaced jaunting cars, the custom was dangerous and must be abandoned.

Colorful Water Lilies Thrive in Simple Pool

Build and Plant Now

What could be lovelier than this gem of a lily pool, sparkling coolly in your garden?

If you start the gorgeous tropical lily now—you'll have fragrant, colorful blooms in about a month. And this handsome exotic needs only a modest amount of space.

The pool itself is simple to make. For pigmy lilies a tub you can sink into the ground will do. But for the larger lilies, best to have a concrete pool. You can easily make one from directions. The trick is to mix ingredients thoroughly—and work fast.

Tropical lilies are happiest in shallow water, so plant them in a box or bushel basket raised on stones as the diagram shows. Other types of lilies you plant in the soil at the bottom of the pool.

As for the border, use picturesque flagstones, plant stonecrop between them, add a clump of ornamental fountain grass. In the background—a tiny rock garden with pinks, bluebells and columbine.

Find complete directions in our 32-page booklet for making and planting all types of lily pools. Tells what to plant around your pool, how to make many delightful kinds of little rock gardens.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of HOW TO MAKE ROCK GARDENS AND LILY POOLS to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME OF booklet.

down Broadway to Delaware avenue, where it disbanded.

The parade yesterday was the first that had been arranged by the United Veterans' Association, Inc., and Captain Charles N. Behrens was grand marshal, assisted by Captain Ernest Steuding and Lieutenant Fred L. Coombs.

As the parade swung down Broadway past the high school it was reviewed by Mayor C. J. Heiselman and officials of the city government. Also on the grand stand was Augustus Cole of Ulster Park, one of two surviving veterans of the Civil War in Ulster county.

The parade was one of the most colorful in years with the gay uniforms of the Port Ewen Fire Department Drum Corps, Kingston Post of the American Legion Drum Corps, the Kingston High School Band, and other musical units in the line of march.

Two new musical units made their appearance in the parade. They were the drum corps formed by members of the local National Guard in charge of Sergeant G. V. Richards and the other of Boy Scouts of Troop 12, in charge of Robert R. Soper. They were greeted with hearty applause.

The parade was headed by Mayor Heiselman, a detachment of police and firemen, the grand marshal and his staff, the National Guard Drum Corps and the National Guard units making up the first division.

The second division was made up of the massed colors, making an inspiring sight, and was followed by the Legion Drum Corps and members of Kingston Post, the Joyce-Schirick Post, Pratt Post, Sons of the American Legion, and automobiles carrying veterans and members of various organizations.

The Port Ewen Fire Department Drum Corps headed the third division and in this division marched the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Port Ewen Fire Department, and the Auxiliaries of Cordts Hose and Excelsior Hose, and Wiltwyck Chapter of the D. A. R. and automobiles carrying members of the American Red Cross.

This was one of the outstanding divisions in the parade, with one of the largest drum corps, the greatest number of members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and Boy Scouts in the line of march.

Captain Behrens, grand marshal of the parade, said today that Port Ewen deserved a vote of credit for the way it cooperated with Kingston in making the parade one of the outstanding Memorial Day Parades in years here.

Rifton Club Marches

The fourth division was composed of the 4-H Clubs of Ulster county and vicinity and the Rifton 4-H Club Drum Corps headed the division. The fifth division was made up of Boy Scouts from over 10 troops in the city and county with Scout Executive R. Gardner Burns leading them. The drum corps of Troop 12 of the First Reformed Church furnished the music for this division.

Grade schools 1, 3 and 4 made up the sixth division headed by the high school band, while the seventh and last division was made up of the Salvation Army, headed by the Army band. The Army float depicted a soldier's grave with an Army woman standing beside it.

The Community Riding Club under the direction of Sergeant John Roosa, acted as division marshals, two members riding between each division.

Many in Parks

The holiday also marked the formal opening of the city's ten parks for the summer season, and during the day several thousand people visited the parks, and enjoyed the pleasures afforded. The younger folks found that all the playground equipment had been installed, and it was in constant use throughout the day and early evening.

The largest crowds of the day were at Forsyth and Hasbrouck Parks.

'Play Day' Ends With Games Awash

Pupils of Schools 1, 3, 4, and Police Baffled by Variety of Weather

Maypoles were blown down, flowers battered with rain and lines for games washed away Monday afternoon 45 minutes before the 'Play Day' for Schools No. 1, 3 and 4 was scheduled to take place at Hasbrouck Park.

After noble efforts on the part of those in charge to revive the scene, and with members of the police force lending their aid in unwinding maypole streamers, the affair started.

The Virginia reel was first danced in the foreground with the Hudson river and hills of the park as a background. This was followed by the winding of the maypoles, two of which had blue and white streamers and the third orange and blue. All three were crowned with white flowers.

Hit pin baseball, Schlagg ball and softball games with teams made up of members from all the schools were to have followed but the rain, which was thought to have blown over had not spent its fury and came with a sudden force, ending the program.

A good-sized crowd had gathered for the program of the downtown schools and remained despite the storm to see the part of the program that was given.

Seven in Japan Attain a Yearly Income of Million

TOKYO.—Seven persons in Japan have incomes of more than a million dollars a year.

The exact income of the seven was not given in the finance department statistics, which showed that the largest tax-paying group was in the bracket earning about $400 a year.

The seven persons in the $1,000,000,000 bracket are from three families, not listed by name, but presumably the Mitsuis, Mitsubishis and Sumitomos.

Eight families are included in the 15 individuals earning between $550,000 and $1,000,000 annually.

Thirty-five families cover the 48 individuals in the bracket between $275,000 and $550,000.

The group earning between $325 and $400 a year is composed of 340,872 persons from 79,593 families.

Income taxes reach into the low incomes in Japan and a person earning $275 annually is subject to a levy of 10 per cent. There are 40,929 in this group.

MEMORIAL TO SQUALUS DEAD

Grim-faced sailors aboard the submarine Sculpin,, anchored at Portsmouth, N. H., pay tribute to dead comrades aboard the sunken sister-submarine Squalus, which lies in 240 feet of water nearby. Slow 21-gun salutes—the Navy's Memorial Day tribute—were sounded and the Sculpin's flag was half-staffed.

KEEPS GHOSTLY RENDEZVOUS

Ruth Desautel, who was to have been the bride of Sherman Shirley, one of the victims of the Squalus disaster, keeps a Memorial Day rendezvous with her dead lover at sea. Standing in a boat over the spot off the New Hampshire coast where the sub lies with the bodies of Shirley and 25 others, she bends her head in prayer and tosses a wreath into the ocean.

America Honors Its Martial Dead; Salute to Squalus

(By The Asociated Press)

America's soldier and sailor dead, from those who perished on Civil War battlefields to the 26 entombed in a sunken submarine last week, were honored on Memorial Day in ceremonies which echoed widespread appeals for peace.

In several of the addresses there were indications of the forth-coming congressional fight over neutrality proposals intended to keep the nation out of war.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), speaking at Arlington, Va., near the tomb of the Unknown Soldier which King George of England will decorate with a wreath next week, opposed American intervention in foreign affairs.

He criticized the use of "methods short of war"—a phrase uttered recently by President Roosevelt—in trying to stop aggression.

"No nation can take methods short of war unless it is prepared to carry through the war to which such measures inevitably lead," Taft said.

Senator Radcliffe (D-Md.), where one of the Civil War's bloodiest battles was fought, championed the peace efforts of Mr. Roosevelt.

Other oratory of the day touched on present economic controversies.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.), first southerner to deliver the annual address at the battlefield at Gettysburg, Pa., said class differences had replaced old sectional hatreds.

"What will it accomplish," he asked, "to achieve sectional unity, only to be divided by economic dissension?"

Parades and grave-decorating ceremonies were held in hundreds of cities and towns.

Off the New Hampshire coast, warships fired a salute and a Coast Guard plane dropped flowers on the cold waters covering the sunken submarine Squalus and its victims.

Story of good works: (1) Man decided to be good; (2) decides to combat the wicked; (3) spends his energy fighting the good who don't agree with him.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores. 10¢ and 25¢.

Protest Meeting To Be Held Here

A "Palestine Protest Meeting," will be held tomorrow evening at Ahavath Israel on Wurts street. A prominent speaker from New York will present his views on the current struggle in the Holy Land and Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, of this city, will preside over the meeting.

Attorney Ress of New York will deliver the principal address and the three rabbis of the city will be present. Invocation will be by the Rev. William McVey, pastor of the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Church.

The meeting is one of many being held throughout the country to voice a protest against the British White Paper and to indicate the necessity of carrying on with the program already started in Palestine. Americans of all creeds have voiced their dissension on the British policy of negation on the question.

A group of prominent local citizens outside the Jewish faith is expected at the meeting.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"—or shall we just go to Hot Springs for a bath?"

Was a Dictator

John J. McGraw, one of the greatest of managers, ruled the New York Giants with an iron hand for 30 years, starting in 1902. McGraw dictated almost every play the Giants made. He did the master-minding and took the blame if his plans went awry. Under him the Giants won 10 National League pennants, three World Series.

Colonials and Cohoes Divide Double Header Memorial Day

Boiceville Loses Hard One To Independents by 5 to 4, Grunies vs. Jones Tonight

Conquering a hard-fighting Boiceville nine, the Kingston Independents squeaked through to their sixth straight victory by a 5-4 margin in Monday's night City League game. Boiceville's shaky defense caused Red Lane's downfall. He throttled the Indies to seven bingles in the early innings.

Charley Bock took the hill for the Indies and was in constant trouble throughout. Rapped for eight safe slaps in his seven-inning stretch, Bock fanned six at opportune moments to chalk up a victory. The Rangers pecked away at Bock continually but stranded base-runners as Bock turned them back in the clutch.

Boiceville Rallies

Trailing 5-2, the Rangers staged a sixth inning rally. With the crowd howling for a kill, Al Naussbaum out-legged a slow bounder to Stumpf with one gone. Sickles, Boiceville's rookie catcher, slapped a single putting Naussbaum on second. Lane sliced to McLean as the runners moved up a peg. Bob Naussbaum's two-run double to center had the Independents on the run. Manager Lou Knapp went in himself for Nunn, sucked a walk and things looked black for the all-conquering. Buddy Zoller's pop fly to Lay killed the threat and the Independents chalked up victory No. 6.

Boiceville scored first on Zoller's walk and successive singles by Bush and Schneider, but the Independents' three in their half erased the Ranger's lead. Lay's long triple chased Stumpf and McLean home and Van Etten's first bingle tallied Lay with two gone. Boiceville added another in the second on Al Naussbaum's single, Stumpf's error and some Dodger baseball by Lay on McLean's attempted forceout on Bob Naussbaum's grounder. Lay failed to cover the keystone sack as Al Naussbaum tripped across.

Knight's single and bobbles by Boiceville's shaky defense presented the Indies with another single tally in the second. Van Etten smashed a drive down the right field foul line which eluded Nunn and rolled a country mile. Bing completed the circuit for his second round-tripper of the year when Nunn failed to trap the pill with a lunging dive putting the Indies ahead 5-2.

The outdoor boxing begins at Woodcliff Park, Poughkeepsie, tonight, with Abe Feldman of Schenectady meeting Charlie "Hobo" Williams of New York, in the main event on the card presenting three former amateurs who boxed at the auditorium.

The list of scraps:

Abe Feldman, Schenectady heavyweight, vs. Charlie Williams, New York, eight rounds.

Ernie Vigh, Newburgh, vs. Eddie Guerra, New York, six rounds.

Starting time is 8:30 sharp.

'I Can Hit Harder'

"I'm sure I'll outpoint Max Baer and I wouldn't be suprised if I laid him low after seven or eight rounds," he says. "I don't think he can take 15 rounds of my punching.

"I think I am destined to be heavyweight champion. I've been successful in everything I've ever undertaken and I'm supremely confident that I'll take Baer and then beat Joe Louis for the title."

Baer and Nova Box Tomorrow

New York, May 31 (AP)—Maxie Baer, the playboy boxer who reformed a little late, and Lou Nova, a comparative novice with a world of promise, clash in a 15-round fight at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night that might, just possibly, produce the world's next heavyweight champion.

The winner is promised a title shot in September against Joe Louis or, by some stretch of the imagination, Tony Galento, depending upon the outcome of their engagement on June 28.

Softball Notes

Federation League

Monday evening the Congregational team met their Waterloo at the hands of Port Ewen when they were able to score only eight runs while Port Ewen was running up twice that number. This leaves the Presbyterian team the only one in the Federation of Men's Clubs Softball League with a perfect score. Trinity Lutherans lost to Hurley 4 to 11 and Wurts Street Baptists won 9 to 7 from the Redeemers.

This evening the leading Presbyterians meet the Clinton Avenue team at armory diamond in an endeavor to retain their lead. Trinity M. E. meets Ulster Park at Hasbrouck and Fair Street plays Albany Avenue Baptists at Barmann Park.

Elks by 5-0

Monday night at Block Park the Elks softball team trimmed Morgans 5-0 as Don Weeks pitched one-hit ball. The Elks scored all of their runs in the first inning on four hits. Balfe, the losing pitcher, got the only hit off of Weeks. Balfe was nicked for six hits. Only one man reached first for Morgans. Weeks fanned three, Balfe 6.

Wins at Union

Union, N. J., May 31 (AP).—Bill Holland of New Rochelle, N. Y., driving a McDowell special, won the feature big car 15-mile race last night at Union Speedway in 15:19.8. Holland was 15 yards ahead of Joe Sanco of Elizabeth at the finish.

Most of Trotters From New York

Goshen, N. Y., May 31 (AP)—New York state appears to have a stranglehold on trotting honors this year with Dunbar W. Bostwick's Nibble Hanover, favorite for the Kentucky Derby's counterpart in trotting, the Hambletonian Stake, and E. Roland Harriman's Edgar Hanover, an $8,100 colt which looks like tops among the juvenile sulky-pullers.

Out of 235 horses entered in Goshen's first Grand Circuit meeting the week of July 4, more than half are owned by New York state sportsmen. And the unlucky number of 13 out of the 45 three-year-olds eligible for the Hambletonian here in August also are in the stables of Empire State owners.

Ulster Gun Club Shoot Thursday

The skeet range of the Ulster County Gun Club will be open for practice shooting Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Shooting will continue until dark.

The patronage at tomorrow's shoot will govern whether or not these shoots will be held weekly. If the turnout of gunners does not indicate enough interest then the club will revert to its plan of shooting every two weeks.

Skeet shooters in the vicinity are invited and spectators are welcome.

Indian Victor in Marathon Again

Norwich, Conn., May 31 (AP)—Elison "Tarzan" Brown, the Rhode Island Redman who has loving cups representing victories in both the Boston marathon and the A. A. U. 15-kilometer run, has established himself as one of the leading distance racers of the year.

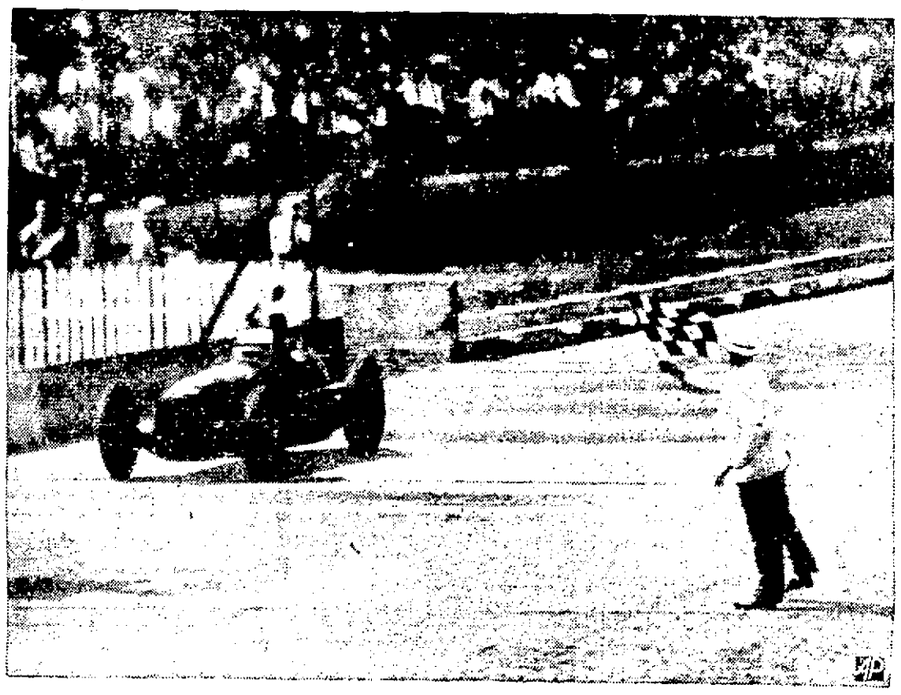

The Narragansett Indian from Westerly who six weeks ago shattered the record in the Boston grind, turned in a similar performance yesterday when he led a field of 51 runners in the 15-kilo in 51:53, two minutes under the record established last year by Vic Drygal of New York.

SPEEDWAY RACE DRAWS 145,000 FANS

SHAW WINS AUTO CLASSIC

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

(By The Associated Press)

If Memorial Day doubleheaders proved nothing else, they showed that baseball deserves all the nice things said about it in its centennial year.

A snug little group of 244,000 saw the eight bargain bills.

That's one side of the day's picture. Up at Cooperstown, N. Y., they hung a portrait of Maj. Gen. Abner Doubleday, the game's founder, in the museum alongside tributes to others of the game's outstanding personalities.

And in New York's Polo Grounds the 56,296 who saw the Giant-Dodger feud witnessed another impressive ceremony when wreaths were laid on commemorative placques for a quartet of old-time Giant heroes—the great "Muggsy" McGraw, Eddie Grant, Christy Mathewson and Ross Young.

But let's see what else they saw.

First thing, of course, is the double shutout suffered by the rugged Reds of Cincinnati, the National League pace setters, at the hands of the Chicago Cubs. A couple of well-pitched games—by the veteran Larry French and the young Vance Page—and the Redlegs were as meek as stuffed owls. That Cincinnati tragedy, by scores of 6-0 and 2-0, coupled with the Cards and the Pirates splitting their twin bill, left the Reds just two games ahead of the field.

The Cards won the first, 7-2, but couldn't stop Pittsburgh's Johnny Rizzo in the nightcap and he belted in enough runs—nine to be exact—to win three ball games. The Pirates won this one, 14-8.

Dodgers, Giants Split

The Dodgers held onto fifth place by winning the nightcap from the Giants, 3-1, after being humiliated by a 5-4 score in the first game. That, incidentally, was the biggest Polo Grounds crowd since September 13, 1936, when 62,000 saw the Giants and the Cards play.

The Bees and Phillies mauled each other around in the other National League offering, the Bees winning No. 1 by 9-7 but losing No. 2 by 5-3.

The highlight of the American League play was the 8-4 shellacking handed the Yankees by the Boston Red Sox. But the Yanks won the second, 17-9.

The Browns and Indians won the day's marathon honors, going 12 innings to a decision. It was in favor of the Indians by 3-2 and gave them a clean sweep for the day. They won the first game by 7-2.

The Athletics and Senators split even, the A's winning the first 3-1, and Washington the second, 8-4. Since Chicago won the first game from the Tigers, 6-2, and then dropped the nightcap, 8-3, all this left the clubs exactly where they were—way behind the Yanks.

Wilbur Shaw Wins Indianapolis Dash

Indianapolis, May 31 (AP)—The 27th annual 500-mile automobile race over the Indianapolis speedway brought death to one former winner and a second victory to another.

Wilbur Shaw, 37-year-old Indianapolis driver who won the 1937 race, finished first again yesterday before 145,000 spjectators to boost his prize money to $71,200 in nine races and become the leading money winner of speedway history.

Floyd Roberts, 39, Van Nuys (Calif.) airplane factory worker who won last year and had planned to quit racing after yesterday, was injured fatally in a three-car pileup on the track.

Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., three-time winner, lost out with his fourth victory almost within his grasp. His car was leading by a lap with only three two-and-a-half-mile laps to go when a tire went flat and the car spun on a turn. Later Mayer's mount stalled and he went out of the race.

Because officials slowed the cars down for a half hour while the track was cleared of wreckage, the record of 117.2 miles an hour which Roberts set in the 1938 classic was not broken. Shaw's winning speed was 115.035 miles an hour.

Hydroplane Race Won by Gatewood

Atlantic City, N. J., May 31 (AP)—Racing around Absecon Island in 36 minutes, 52 seconds, William E. Gatewood of Norfolk, Va., won the 22.6-mile Auerbach Memorial trophy race yesterday in his 225-inch hydroplane, "Miss Mantwo."

Two miles ahead of his nearest competitor when the exhaust manifold blew off, Gatewood finished three seconds ahead of Jack Thomas of Seaside.

Rosendale Loses To Grunies, 11-6

Yesterday afternoon at Kristic Field, Grunenwalds defeated the Rosendale Club, 11-6. The game was nip and tuck until the seventh inning, when the Grunies pushed over five runs to sew up the contest.

Big Joe Mahar scattered 10 hits and struck out seven. Balfe, working for Rosendale, allowed 16 hits and fanned nine.

Vince Smedes cracked four out of five for the Bakers, while Tony Debrosky rapped out three for five for Rosendale.

Charlie Neff Pitches Stellar Game for Kingston—Mac Tiano Helps With Two Homers in Second

Before a good holiday crowd Fred Davi's Kingston Colonials and Cohoes hooked up in a doubleheader at the Athletic Field yesterday afternoon. After five hours of it the teams broke even. The Colonials took the opener 13 to 8 but dropped the nightcapper by 9 to 5 in 10 innings.

Charlie Neff, aided by Joe Brown, bested Joe Teso and Sheridan in the curtain call. Bud Swarthout, who relieved Orville Sweet in the second tussle, lost to Steve Hamil.

After spotting Cohoes a 3 to 1 lead with four sessions gone, the Colonials hopped on Teso and then continued to lather Norm Sheridan. Kingston pushed over two runs in the fifth to knot the count and then added seven more in the sixth. Charlie Neff opened the fatal seventh by reaching first when Fred Miggins kicked the ball around his sack on an easy bounder. Husta walked and Benjamin, who was one of the standout hitters all day, slashed an easy double play grounder to Guter who lost it. Neff romped in.

Finger was erased but Mac Tiano hoisted a fly into left where Carr misjudged it in the sun and it fell for a double, scoring Husta. DuBois was intentionally passed to fill the sacks. The strategy worked as Schatzel forced Benjamin at the platter. Joe Hoffman caught on one and singled into center accounting for Tiano and DuBois. Frankie Neff continued the slaughter with a solo to right pushing in Schatzel. This was plenty for Teso. Sheridan took the hill and was greeted by Charlie Neff's two-ply smack. The inning finally expired as Husta skied to Semerad, an ex-Union College star.

Kingston added three more in the seventh just to insure a victory. Cohoes hammered Joe Brown in the seventh, eighth and ninth for five runs. After the first inning Charlie Neff pitched air-tight ball. The batting heroes were Joe Hoffman, Carr and Haack. With three bingles, Hoffman rifled in five important markers.

Tiano Poles Two

Although Mac Tiano walloped out two disputed home runs in the finale the Colonials dropped a 9 to 5 decision in 10 innings to Steve Hamil. Orville Sweet and Bud Swarthout were equally reached for a total of 15 solid knocks. Swarthout helped to lose his own game with an error in the overtime.

Kingston watched Cohoes pile up a 4-2 lead and then lose it to the locals in the fifth and sixth when the Davimen overcame the lead and made the count 5 to 4. Mac Tiano unleashed his round trippers in the fourth and fifth frames.

Cohoes clinched the game in the tenth with Haack starting it off in good style with a single out to Tommy DuBois. Ralph Semerad, the former Union athlete, hit a bunt down the first base line where Swarthout came charging in. Bud scooped up the pill and then threw it into right field while Haack scampered all the way home. Waranda walked. Carr slashed a hit into center scoring Semerad. Buter followed with another solo pushing in Waranda. After Miggins moved them up with a sacrince, Hoffman tossed out Lemay, but on the play, Carr scored the fourth run.

Although touched for 12 hits, Hamil hurled winning ball all the way. With men on the paths in scoring position the big boy pulled himself together and escaped unsinged. As a result of the two games Kingston still plays .500 ball with five wins and a like number of losses.

Bleak Finland Celebrates Flower Day Each Spring

It is so common to think of Finland as a bleak and barren land of the north that many visitors are greatly surprised to find Flower day, May 13, one of the most popular of Finnish holidays. It is a day when all Helsinki turns out to celebrate and the city is literally covered with thousands of geraniums, hydrangeas, fuchsias, pansies, violets and poppies. Housewives fill their windows with flower pots and hang wreathes of brightly colored blossoms over their doors, while the university students and school children hold processions and singing festivals, all marked by lavish floral decorations.

The day is historically the anniversary of the Finnish national anthem's first public performance, so that choral singing, for which the Finns are as famous as for their running, plays a big part in the celebration. The anthem is nearly a hundred years old now, and is dear to the heart of every Finn. Its words tell of the indomitable spirit of Finland in overcoming her natural poverty:

"Our land is poor, as all can tell,
For those who seek but gold."

The visitor is bound to admit that if the country has little gold in its hills it suffers from no lack of golden buttercups, marigold, and nasturtiums upon their surface. For in addition to the boatloads of cultivated cut flowers which are sold any spring or summer morning in the famous marketplace in Helsinki, the rural fields and woods are full of gay wild blossoms from May till August.

It is a curious fact that with all his love for flowers of every kind the modern Finn seldom sends any at all to a funeral. A movement has been under way for several years which provides a home for the aged from contributions made by those who, instead of buying flowers for a funeral, send their money to the foundation in charge of the project.

Whiteport Man Jailed

Louis Seagar, 49, of Whiteport, was arrested Tuesday by Anderson V. Ellsworth at Rosendale on a charge of crashing into Ellsworth's parked car in front of Vaughn's drug store and failing to stop. Ellsworth pursued the Seagar car to the Kelder place near the bridge and arrested Seagar. Deputy Sheriffs Vredenburg and Brown arraigned Seagar before Justice Baxter, who imposed a $25 fine and 25 days in jail on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and also $10 or 10 days for operating a car without a license. Seagar was brought to jail. The Ellsworth car was damaged about the fender.

Three Men Arrested

Three men were arrested by railroad police last night on a charge of trespassing on railroad property. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Humphrey Jones by Officer Thiel, the men were given five days in jail. They were George Quinlan of Freeport, L. I., Frank Healey of Dunmore, Pa., and Paul Dwyer of New York.

Gumerlock Arrested

Frank J. Gumerlock, 43, who said he had no home, was arrested at Ellenville by Chief Porter on a public intoxication charge Tuesday. Judge Kaiser handed out a 60-day jail sentence.

One of the problems that the Board of Public Works is wrestling with at the present time is the "house in the middle of the road" on Meade street at East Chester street. Several days ago the board made a personal inspection of the problem, but what decision was reached is not known. Mayor Heiselman, president of the board, has stated he was in favor of having the house moved back off the street. Meade street is being widened and improved as a WPA project and in order to make it a well finished job the house undoubtedly will be moved to another foundation.

New York, May 31 (AP)—The State Board of Standards and Appeals has upheld validity of a New York Labor Department requirement of a minimum "weekly" wage to women and minors.

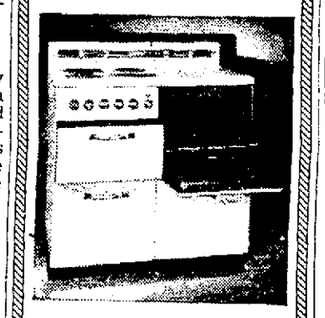

The department order was challenged as "invalid and unreasonable" last September by Harry J. Hutchins, owner of the Hutchins marine laundry at Buffalo. The board said the order applies to all women and minors employed for any period in a given week.
